Kennedy Will Address UN Next Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will address the United Nations General Assembly next Monday. The White House announced today.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy rushed to Congress today a request for an extra $55 million to help pay for the damage of hurricanes Carla and Esther and other possible natural disasters.

Kennedy is expected to set forth the United States position on disarmament and a nuclear test ban. He is certain to express U. S. policy toward the organization of the United Nations itself in the wake of the death of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld.

The White House said the United Nations had scheduled a Kennedy speech for Monday morning. Press secretary Pierre Salinger said the President would appear at that time unless something unforeseen interferes.

The federal government now believes the damage from hurricane Carla, which hit primarily in Texas and Louisiana, plus the effects of Esther which is still hammering New England, could run as high as the total for three storms, which struck the east coast in August and September 1955. The damage then was close to a billion dollars, and the federal government put nearly $65 million into disaster relief.

Kennedy also officially declared that six Louisiana parishes (counties) are major disaster areas, and thus eligible for federal financial help. A number of Texas counties previously had been declared disaster areas.

The Louisiana parishes: Calcasieu, Cameron, Iberia, Lafourche, St. Bernard and Vermilion.

How State Was Divided Up

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Here is the new Arkansas congressional district lineup, as embodied in redistricting bills passed by the Arkansas Senate and House.

The 1st District, in northeast Arkansas, has 10 counties, 360,000 people, and one present congressman, Rep. E. C. Gathings.

The 2nd District, in north central Arkansas, has 19 counties and 517,000 people. It has two present congressmen, Reps. Dale Alford and Wilbur Mills.

The 3rd District, in northwest Arkansas, has 18 counties and 332,000 people. It has one incumbent congressman, Rep. J. W. Trimble.

The 4th District, in south Arkansas, has 28 counties and 75,000 residents. It has two incumbent congressmen, Reps. Oren Harris and Catherine Norrell.

Berlin Wall Is Still Unbelievable

By LYNN HEINERLING
BERLIN (AP)—No matter how many times you see it, Berlin's wall is unbelievable.

This ugly line of concrete and barbed wire, cutting a jagged line through the heart of a great city, is something the mind can scarcely accommodate.

The East German Communists, backed by Moscow, hardly could have demonstrated anything so faithfully true to the pattern of communism as pictured by the West.

The absolute priority of political convictions over human relationships was never more clearly shown. The wall is lined with thousands of heartaches.

Old friends can no longer talk to each other, but must wave handkerchiefs across the wall if they can reach it. Lovers look at each other through binoculars. A father shouts up to his little son in a third story window behind the wall.

Old mothers wait in vain for visits from their sons and daughters. Newly married couples turn up in their finery at the wall so parents can take a look. An old man sits in a second floor window on Waldemarstrasse, waving tirelessly at old friends. He is too old to contemplate escape.

The wall, with all its tragedies, attracts Berliners by the thousands. They turn up nightly to wave, to heckle the East German police across the wall, to shout insults.

They hope they will get to see someone escape, but escapes are becoming more difficult.

Memphis Plans Integration

MEMPHIS (AP)—Officials say Negro pupils will be assigned to all-white public schools here soon—the first break in the city system's strict racial segregation.

The quiet announcement was made by William D. Galbreath, president of the city school board Wednesday. Presumably, only first grade children are involved.

Galbreath said a final decision on how many Negro children will enter previously all-white schools won't be made until all pupil assignment appeals are completed.

The appeals to the school board were filed for Negro first graders who applied for admission to all-white schools at the start of the term and were rejected.

The board said all 50 were rejected in order to force a hearing in each case. Of the 42 appeals filed, about 16 had been heard. Two special officers preside at the private hearings.

"The board now feels that it has sufficient information at hand to state that some assignments of Negro pupils to formerly all white schools will be made in the near future," said Galbreath.

Parkway to Follow Present Highways

HELENA, Ark. (AP)—The proposed Mississippi River Parkway will follow existing highways through Eastern Arkansas with alternate exits on the south at Helena and Lake Village.

The Arkansas committee selected the route Wednesday.

The Arkansas route is: Interstate Highway 55 from the Missouri state line near Blytheville to West Memphis, U.S. 79 to Marietta, State 1 to Walnut Corner, then either State 20 to Helena and across the river to Mississippi or State 1 south through De Witt and McGeece and U.S. 65 through Lake Village.

U.S. 61 probably will be named an alternate route in the Blytheville area. It is closer to the river than Interstate 55.

Group Wants to Up Cotton Acreage

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation has requested an increase in the 1962 cotton acreage allotment.

It is asking the state's congressional delegation to back its stand with Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman.

The same appeal was made on a national level last week by Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Harold B. Ohlendorf of Osceola, president of the state organization, made these three points in support of the federation's stand:

Cotton carryover on Aug. 1 was the lowest since 1953.

Current Agriculture Department estimates indicate 1961 cotton production will be appreciably lower than domestic consumption and exports anticipated for 1961-62.

Additional acreage for producers wanting it would help raise net farm incomes by lowering costs of production without danger of oversupply.

Training Plane Crashes, Burns

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—An F-84 National Guard jet training plane crashed and burned near here Wednesday night but the pilot parachuted to safety.

Robert J. Maddux, 24, of Hot Springs, who was not injured, landed in rugged territory and walked to a farmhouse.

He is a member of the 184th Tactical Reconnaissance Squadron, a Guard unit which has been called to active duty Oct. 1.

What went wrong with his plane was not determined.

It crashed in a mountainous area two miles north of Rudy, Ark., between U.S. Highway 71 and State Highway 59.

One of the wings hit a farmhouse, but there were no injuries.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Dr. Henry Buchtel of Denver, Colo., then either State 20 to Helena and across the river to Mississippi or State 1 south through De Witt and McGeece and U.S. 65 through Lake Village.

Appointment Is Confirmed

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The state Senate Wednesday confirmed the appointment of Eddie Anderson of Ozark to the Police Commission. His term runs through Jan. 14, 1963.

Critically Burned

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (AP)—Harry Julien, the injured lone survivor of the Hammarskjöld plane crash, will be in the hospital here for three months, a senior hospital spokesman said Wednesday.

The American U.N. security guard had severe burns and multiple injuries.

Extends Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—Legislation to extend espionage laws to activities of American citizens abroad was passed by voice vote in the Senate Wednesday and sent to the White House.

Strike Ends at Memphis Plant

MEMPHIS (AP)—The strike of electrical workers at the city-owned Memphis Light, Gas and Water Division ended today.

The big question: how many would be rehired? The division fired 187 strikers who didn't report for work Tuesday and said it was reducing its work force.

Ray Morton, president of LG&W, said the problem would be placed before a meeting of the LG&W commission.

The 3-week-old strike, called in a wage dispute, collapsed Wednesday night in the face of stiff LG&W opposition and a steady "back to work" drift.

Arkansan Joins Peace Corps

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP)—A Paragould girl is the second Arkansan—and the first woman from the state—to qualify for the national Peace Corps.

She is Miss Dulaney Gardner, Phil, while the others, Caryl Joy 22, a graduate of Northwestern University, and Sue University. She was notified Wednesday to report Sept. 30 to Pennsylvania State University for further examinations and 10 weeks of training in preparation for an assignment as a teacher's aid in the Philippines.

She attended the University of Arkansas and Southern Methodist University before transferring to Northwestern.

A former Arkansas AM&N College student was the first Arkansan to be picked for the new Peace Corps.

Fallout at High Rate for a Time

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Radioactive fallout in Arkansas rose to possibly the highest rate in the eastern United States on Wednesday, but had fallen to about a third of the peak reading by today.

The State Health Department said the Wednesday reading was 709 micromicrocuries per meter of air.

Frank Wilson, the department's chief chemist, attributed today's decline to rain moving in and taking radioactivity out.

He said the new reading was a preliminary one, which he did not make public. A final official reading will be made later today.

Dr. J. T. Herron, state health officer, said 3,000 micromicrocuries is the maximum radiation considered safe for humans, but he added that 1,000 micromicrocuries is dangerous over a long period.

The 709 figure was the highest in the state's history.

Before Russia resumed nuclear tests, the state's normal radioactive measurement was .20 micromicrocuries per meter of air.

"We can be sure the Russian people are being subjected to dosages far beyond what we are registering here," Herron said. "They are in the primary area of the tests."

Bloc Stands Firm Against Pressure of Administration

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A Senate bloc held firm today to defeat three administration-backed bills to appropriate $417,000 for livestock shows in the closing hours of a second special legislative session today.

Both houses adjourned, on schedule at noon.

Sen. Jimmy Slack of Arkadelphia was the key as the Fabius administration tried to push the bills through.

Slack announced shortly after the Senate convened that he would vote for a $142,000 appropriation for county livestock shows.

He said, however, he still opposed a $75,000 bill for district shows and $200,000 for a state show.

Slack was one of 10 senators who banded together to beat Senate versions of the livestock show bills Tuesday. House versions of the measures, passed Tuesday, came up in the Senate today.

Nine senators can block an appropriations bill and a switch of two votes was needed to get the measures through.

Sen. Robert Hayes Williams of Russellville announced he was deserting the bloc. This left the pressure on Slack.

Slack said he was getting heat from the governor's office and from public school forces. He is a textbook salesman and must deal with school administrators. The public school strength in the Senate formed the main basis for the bloc against the livestock show bills.

Williams said he had been convinced by talking with his constituents that the appropriations were for a worthy purpose.

Slack, visibly nervous, was not in the chamber when the vote was taken on the bills.

The voting went about as it had Tuesday. The core of the bloc—eight senators—voted against all three bills. Williams switched.

Sens Russell Elrod of Siloam Springs and Joe Lee Anderson of Helena were out of the chamber when the 24-8 vote was recorded on the county show bill. It takes 27 votes to pass an appropriations bill.

Anderson was back and voted in favor of the district show bill, which failed 25-8.

Elrod and Slack joined the "no" votes on the state show bill, which went down 25-10.

Slack intentionally missed the roll call on the first two bills. He said he had changed his mind and decided to oppose all three.

He conferred with Gov. Orval E. Faubus shortly before the bills came to a vote, but he announced he was still against them.

The Senate completed legislative action on House bills to authorize collection of a 10 per cent admission tax at War Memorial Stadium; to create a radiation control agency in the state Health Department and to create a separate state office to handle social security disability claims.

The House, which had wound up most of its business before today's session started, passed Senate versions of the same bills.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Legislature completed action Wednesday on congressional redistricting and most of the other business of its second special session.

Both houses voted to adjourn at noon today.

Each house passed the other's redistricting bill Wednesday. Signing of one of the identical measures by Gov. Orval E. Faubus will eliminate the threat of a statewide Continued on Page Four Ferguson Services Friday 2 p. m.

Funeral services for William Thomas (Mutt) Ferguson, 40, will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at Herndon-Cornelius Funeral Home Chapel by the Rev. W. C. Lamo, assisted by the Rev. Lacie Rowe. Burial will be in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Ferguson, a former Hope resident, was electrocuted when he accidentally touched an electrical conductor at the Champion Papers, Inc., where he worked.

He was climbing from a platform above a paper machine when he reached around a guard rail and touched a 440-volt busbar which supplies power for a crane. Attempts to revive him failed.

Hurricane Eye Closes, Winds Losing Punch

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hurricane Esther—apparently tiring from her long journey from the tropics—lost her vicious fury today as she neared Cape Cod and offshore Massachusetts islands.

The weather station at Otis Air Force Base reported, "the eye of the hurricane has closed, winds are diminishing fast and Cape Cod may have no hurricane at all."

The Weather Bureau observation station at Hyannis Airport still referred to the storm as a hurricane.

Otis weather officials said the center of the storm was 35 miles south of Martha's Vineyard when the eye disappeared.

Otis has radar facilities which permit observers to track the path of the storm and determine its strength.

Esther slammed by the eastern end of Long Island this morning with 100-mile-an-hour winds but the effect on the populous New York area was considered tame.

Most serious consequences appeared to be power failures in thousands of homes, flooding of highways, broken windows and signboards.

Esther seemed unlikely to challenge the record of her unnamed sister which swept up the coast just 23 years ago today. That storm took 530 lives and caused $300 million damage.

Preparedness was the watchword in Esther's path. About 700 persons left their homes in the Montauk, N.Y., area, at the eastern tip of Long Island, for emergency shelters or higher ground.

Massachusetts Civil Defense headquarters evacuated 1,000 families from areas in path of high tides or coastal flooding in Barnstable Bay and Cape Cod.

Pierce winds tore down electric and power lines. The Long Island Lighting Co. in New York said more than 200,000 homes in Suffolk, Nassau and Queens Counties, all on Long Island, were without power. More than 10,000 phones were out. Schools were closed for the day in many communities.

Connecticut escaped the full force of Esther and Gov. John Dempsey said the worst appeared over at mid-morning without serious damage.

He instructed state police and other officials to make facilities available to needy persons in Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Rhode Island, hit hard in the 1938 hurricane, fared better today. At least 200 persons were evacuated from waterfront homes. Boat owners had two days of warning to get their craft secured or out Continued on Page Four

Jap Scientist Own Guinea Pig

TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese atomic scientist is using himself as a guinea pig to test the rate of elimination and effects of dangerous strontium 90 when taken by humans.

Dr. Toshiro Aoki, 52, of the Atomic Energy Research Institute swallowed a dose of the radioactive element on Aug. 16 by mixing it with his coffee. The amount was one-tenth of the level considered dangerous to human bodies.

He estimated today about .1 per cent of the strontium still remains in his body. He figured it will remain with him until late next year. The radiation readings revealed the strontium lodged in the bones of his shoulder, hip and spine.

Says Women Should Be More Gentle

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The mayor pro tem of Wilmington, N.C., shares an opinion widely held in the South—and probably the North too—that women should be gentle and feminine.

"That's why Southern girls win the Miss America contest. They are soft and womanly, with good, old-fashioned Southern charm," says the city official. "Women should never compete in a man's world."

Wilmington's mayor pro tem is a shapely brunette mother of two and youthful-looking grandmother of one, Hannah Block. And when Mrs. Block says women shouldn't compete with men, she means it with wide hazel-eyed sincerity.

The fact she beat a dozen men to be elected the first woman on the City Council doesn't mean she was competitive about it. It was just something that had to be done.

"I'm not a politician," she protested in her soft Southern voice. "You can be interested in good government and remain feminine."

"I've got my husband behind me. If I have any problems I talk them over with him."

Industrialist Charles M. Block, has seen his energetic Virginia-born wife active in community work since he brought her to Wilmington as a bride 26 years ago.

"The way I see it," she explains, "socializing is very nice but I have a philosophy a day shouldn't go by without my doing some-thing constructive. I hope I'm not

Calls to U. S. Agencies Are Monitored

By GEOFFREY GOULD

WASHINGTON (AP)—"Big brother may not be watching you, yet, but his secretary probably is listening in on your telephone calls to government agencies."

That's the conclusion of the House Government Information subcommittee after a survey of telephone monitoring practices of 37 major government agencies.

The report issued today, said 33 of the 37 federal agencies permit some kind of telephone monitoring—if you include having a secretary make notes of dates, numbers, future engagements and the like.

It added that 21 agencies have no regulations on telephone monitoring, and 17 do not always require that the other party be warned that what he is saying is being taken down.

The report said most agencies "rationalize it as an aid to efficiency. When monitoring is done secretly and becomes eavesdropping, however, the bureaucracy is sacrificing principle on the altar of efficiency."

The report said there were indications of "a dangerous drift toward a huge bureaucracy peering over the shoulder of the citizen."

The survey was conducted by the staff of the subcommittee headed by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif. The subcommittee was formed five years ago to make information on government business more accessible to the public.

The report said it found 363 transmitter cutoff switches and 240 listening-in circuits on telephones going through a switchboard operated by the General Services Administration. It said the great majority of these was on phone lines of the Welfare Department.

A transmitter cutoff switch is a button that shuts off the transmitter part of a telephone, so someone can hear but cannot be heard. A listening-in circuit is another method of hearing without being heard.

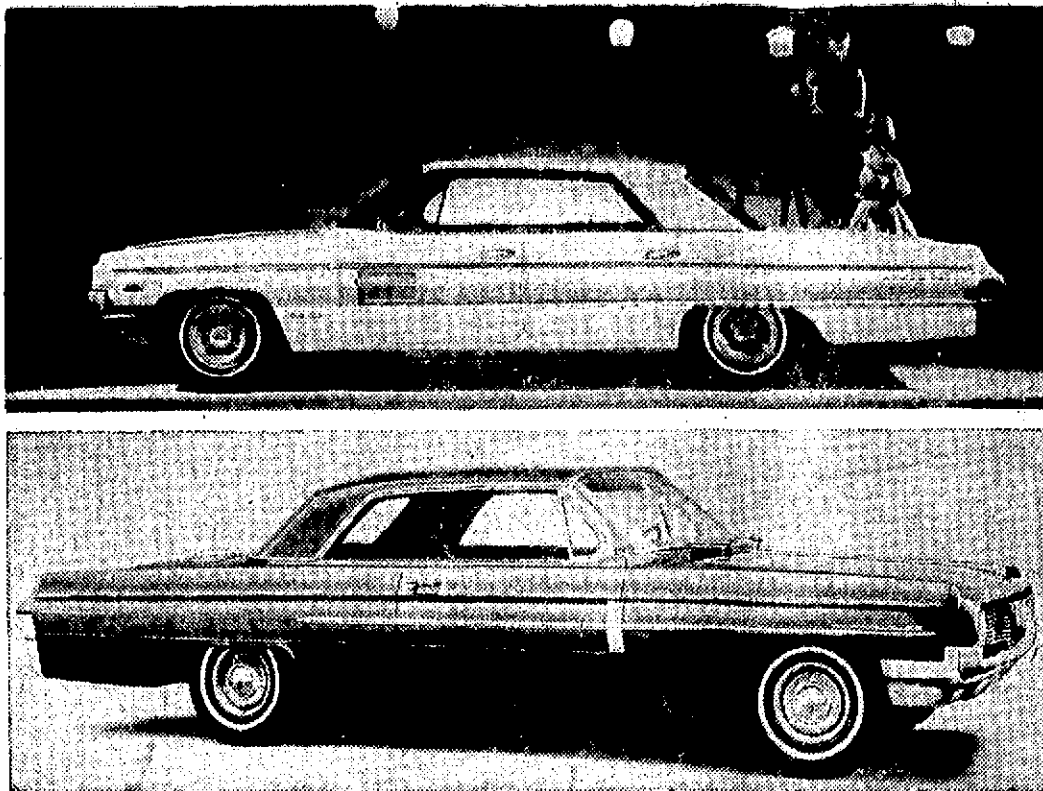

The telephone company charges extra for both devices, and the report estimated that "many thousands of dollars a year are spent on the listening-in devices."

considered a do-gooder. Let's put it this way: When you're doing for others, you're doing for yourself as well."

Berdis raising her children — Mary Elizabeth now a teen-ager, and Franklin Lee, now a first lieutenant stationed at Ft. Bragg, N.C., and father of 16-month-old Steven — Mrs. Block has a pet hobby of running a sort of one-woman charm school.

The girls live in her home for an indefinite period of time, and learn everything from the social graces to good grooming and how to treat people diplomatically. She wouldn't think of charging them.

Annually one of the girls is the State entrant in the Miss America contest, and this year Mrs. Block had a winner in Maria Beale Fletcher. She's visiting in New York after the Atlantic City victory.

Russia Uses Guerrilla Tactics Now

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Guerrilla wars used to be fought by toughs in jungles while diplomacy was the province of well-dressed and solemn gentlemen who discoursed on a high level and issued opaque communiques.

Then the Russians, as usual, had to come along and spoil things. Now Premier Khrushchev is using guerrilla tactics for diplomacy and diplomacy for guerrilla tactics.

It's simple, too. Guerrillas hit and run, do some damage, bewilder the opposition which does not know what to expect next, disappear for a while, and strike again somewhere else.

At times this seemed to simple for Western statesmen, who for years have acted like villagers huddled in a rain forest, wondering what next but too used to their old ways to try new ways of their own to strike back.

Khrushchev would belt them with an unadorned blackjack and then, just to confuse them, belt them with a blackjack dressed in Christmas wrappings. One minute he'd be the bad guy talking war, the next the good guy yearning for peace.

Stalin used guerrilla tactics, too. Khrushchev has gone beyond him and added a public relations touch that makes Madison Avenue look as old-fashioned as a pitchman at a circus.

For instance: in the midst of all his rumpus about Berlin—perhaps because of it—in the past few months he has given three distinguished and widely read American newspapermen lengthy, separate interviews. They reported what he said in great detail, and much length. So he reached millions of Americans repeatedly with his views on a host of issues.

It seems that almost daily—this is an exaggeration, but not much—he has something to say on war, peace, disarmament, or nuclear testing.

All of this not only gets duly reported over the air and in the press of America but in Western Europe and around the world. In short, he has made top news with whatever tactic he wanted to use for months.

By contrast the Western leaders have seemed hush-mouthed. President Kennedy, for instance, could but didn't make broad use of TV to talk to the people. He falls far short of making maximum use of other news media either to answer Khrushchev or turn the tables on him by putting him on the defensive.

What Khrushchev has been doing apparently finally sank in on the Kennedy administration. Last week the White House revealed Kennedy has set up a group of advisers on psychological and political warfare. It has met eight times.

The most recent example of how Khrushchev day by day tries to keep the West guessing and off balance came Tuesday at the United Nations when Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko talked to reporters.

Russia has long insisted that U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld—killed this week in a plane crash—should be replaced by three secretaries-general, one of whom would represent the Communist world and could veto anything the other two wanted to do in any emergency

Many Things Revealed by the Mail

By MAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

No one has counted the number of left-handed people in the world, but they may number 200 million. The chances against having a southpaw child in the United States are estimated at about 24 to 1.

Ever worry about being struck by a falling meteorite? You are more likely to be hit by a falling airplane. Scientists estimate at least 75 million meteoric particles enter the earth's atmosphere every day, all but one or two of which are burned up before reaching the ground.

We take handkerchiefs for granted now, but once they were an ornament worn only by the wealthy. The penalty for stealing a handkerchief in Elizabethan England was nothing to be sneezed at—it was death.

The first "air mail" as carried by homing pigeons, Egyptians and Persians used racing pigeons to deliver messages more than 3,000 years ago.

The nation's motor vehicle owners now pay gasoline taxes at the rate of $182 a second.

If your pet pooch is missing at mealtime in San Francisco, you can dial T-O-S-T. DOG on your telephone and listen to recorded descriptions of missing dogs brought to the ASPCA.

Can you name a U.S. president who was taught to write by his wife? He was Andrew Johnson, anywhere around the world.

This would in effect paralyze the United Nations. Gromyko repeated the Russian demand for three secretaries. But now he managed to couple this with another old Soviet demand that Red China be admitted to the United Nations.

If Russia sticks to this, it will turn this U. N. session into chaos. Gromyko got in his lick before the world organization even had a chance to consider a successor to Hammarskjöld who never went to school. Eliza McCordie, whom he later married, taught him when he was about 17.

You and your wife probably have 32 teeth each—or did! but it's different in the horse family. The horse has 40 teeth, the mare usually has only 36.

The last words of Henri Toulouse-Lautrec, were "The owl fool!" They were addressed to his father. As the famous painter lay dying, his eccentric, heedless parent was busying himself shooting owls from a tower.

In the century before the World War I erupted, between 30 and 40 million people from Europe left what they had behind to come here to find something else. What are those of us here now looking for?

The White donkey in Saudi Arabia, known for its sturdiness, can tote for long distances loads equal to its own weight. Many an American father, worrying about how to finance two kids through four years of college, would regard the animal as an amateur.

It was Mark Twain who observed: "The only way to keep your health is to eat what you don't want, wrinkle what you don't like, and do what you'd rather not."

Asks People to Tighten Belts

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands (AP)—Queen Juliana today asked her people to tighten their belts and pay for a record military budget because of the increasing danger of war.

Addressing the combined houses of Parliament in the 700-year-old Knights' Hall, the Queen said some taxes will be raised and annual defense expenditures for the first time will pass the two billion guilder mark — to 2,061,000 guilders ($572 million) from the present 1,850,000 ($514 million) in 1963 the defense outlay is to rise to 2,136,000 ($593 million).

Money for State Base

WASHINGTON (AP)— Little Rock Air Force Base would get $1.9 million for construction of a hospital under a military construction appropriation bill which went to President Kennedy Tuesday. The $947 million measure was given final approval by the Senate earlier Tuesday after the House accepted a Senate-House conference committee compromise.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Edmiston and Mrs. Charles Taylor.

Lilac Garden Club

The Lilac Garden Club of Hope met Wednesday, Sept. 20 in the home of Mrs. B. W. Edwards. An oriental arrangement made a fitting atmosphere for the program by Mrs. Lyle Moore on "Oriental Flower Arranging." Besides making three arrangements and discussing them, the guest speaker also gave some interesting Japanese customs.
The routine business was conducted by the president, Mrs. Edwards. During the refreshment hour cake and coffee were served to 12 members and two guests, Mrs. Herman Smith and Mrs. Moore.

DeAnn Garden Club

The DeAnn Lilac Garden Club met with Mrs. Roy Burke Tuesday, Sept. 19. The home was decorated with fall flowers such as dahlias and zinnias.

Mrs. Roy Burke gave the devotion and closed with prayer. The business was conducted by the president, Mrs. Hollis Samuel and the secretary, Mrs. Burke, read the minutes and called the roll. "How to Preserve Materials for Dried Arrangements" was the subject, given by Mrs. John Burke. Mrs. Roy Burke demonstrated making a birch bark flower hanger. Each member brought a hat made of autumn leaves and flowers. In judging them Mrs. Irvin Burke received first place and Mrs. Samuels was second.
Mrs. Ronnie Burke was welcomed as a new member of the club. Refreshments were served to 11 members and a guest, Mrs. Adam Thomas of Prescott.

Tuesday Bridge Club Meets

A Tuesday Night Bridge Club met with Mrs. George Frazier on Sept. 19 and coleus and house plants were seen throughout the home. Mrs. Harton Barber was an added guest.

When scores were tallied, Mrs. Homer Jones was high scorer and Mrs. Lloyd Guerin was second high. The game prize went to Mrs. Floyd Leverett. During the refreshment hour a salad plate and coffee was served.

Mrs. Donna Rademacher Is Wed

The wedding of Miss Donna Rue Nell Rademacher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rademacher of Willisville, formerly of Hope, and Oran Honstead of Garden City, Kansas, was an event of 3 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 17 in the Willisville Methodist Church. The groom's parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Pert Honstead of Dighton, Kansas.

The Rev. Clyde Swift heard the rites of the double ring ceremony before an altar marked by white baskets of blue tinted carnations and greenery on tall wrought-iron standards.

A program of nuptial music, was presented by Mrs. J. E. Cox, pianist and Mrs. Max Norman,

Father Discovers Adolescent Daughter

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE
Dear Helen: When my husband divorced his first wife she refused any help. When he sent his child a gift or money the mother sent it back.
He never asked to see the child because he was afraid he would be turned down.
Recently he made a trip to his home town and was told the child wanted to see him, so he saw his daughter after 16 years. The girl's mother was there too. He told me all about the meeting.

He has been a good husband and a good father to my children, but after he came home he locked himself in the bedroom with the vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina-length dress of white taffeta with a diagonal line of Alecon lace applique from the rounded neckline of the basque bodice to a mid-point on the full skirt. The long fitted sleeves came to petal-points over the wrists, and the finger tip veil of French illusion was attached to a tulle of orange blossoms. Her wedding bouquet was a cascade arrangement of white stephanotis, baby orchids, and pale blue forget-me-nots, all carried on a white ribbon.

The bride's only attendant was Mrs. Perry McGruder of Bossier City, La. Bert Baxter of Howard Ridge, Mo. served as best man, while ushers were Dale McKinney of Hope and Perry McGruder of Bossier City.

A reception was held in the recreation room of the church following the wedding.

Mrs. Dale McKinney presided over the cake service, while Mrs. Baxter served punch. Mrs. S. W. Crank was in charge of the brides book.
For travel the bride wore an all-beige costume, and to her shoulder she pinned the corsage from her wedding bouquet.
Mrs. Honstead is a graduate of Willisville High School, attended IBM School in Boston, Mass. and has been employed in IBM work in Boston and Little Rock. Mr. Honstead attend the Garden City Schools and is now serving with the U.S. Navy at Long Beach, Calif.

After a wedding trip to Kansas and Colorado they will be at home in Long Beach.

Sweet Home HD Club Meets

The Sweet Home HD Club met Friday, Sept. 15 at the new club house with 12 members and a visitor, Mrs. Rae Pye, present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. B. J. Warnken. The Eye-opener, "Now You see it, now you don't" was given by the home management leader Mrs. Era Ward. The devotional taken from John 5:39 was given by Mrs. Era Ward. Mrs. Warnken led the group in the Club creed. Roll call was answered by "My Biggest Sewing Problem". Minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary and a treasurer's report was given. Miss Hazel Cummings gave a talk after which Mrs. Bill Bright, clothing leader gave a report on matching patterns with fabrics.
Cold drinks and cookies were served during the social hour by the hostess, Mrs. Lloyd Reese.

Coming and Going

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Benson and Mrs. Charles Bader returned on Tuesday from a weekend in Richardson, Texas, with the Charles Benson family.

What makes a man, 38 years old and father of four children, married for 14 years to me, do a thing like this? —Second Wife

Dear Second Wife: What makes him do it is regret—regret that he has lost a daughter, missed all her years of growing up.

Fathers have a very special bond with their daughters, and love them most during the adolescent years. Almost all parents too feel a very special tie with a first-born child. Your husband wishes now he had not lost his daughter.

His love for you and the family you love together will not be endangered unless you make an issue of this discovery. Be patient with him, show him that you love him, remind him daily in unspoken ways that he has four other children. Perhaps you might invite the older daughter for a visit. When her father sees her within a normal family situation some of the wistful quality may be removed from his thinking about her.

Dear Helen: I am 17 and have been going with a boy, 21, for two years. For the past year we have been going too far in our petting. We have broken up several times trying to stop but always come back together.

We have been engaged for a month and last night he said he wanted to be sure before he got married. That hurts because I think he should be sure after buying a beautiful engagement ring. The only way I can get him to act as if he loves me is to make him think he is going to lose me.

Then he begs me to marry him right then and threatens to kill himself.

I am very mature for my age since I have had to take care of my invalid father and a house and go to school for the last two years. My mother died when I

Thurmond Charges to Be Probed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Armed Services Committee voted today to investigate the basis for charges by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., that the Pentagon bans anti-Communist statements by military personnel.

The committee, meeting behind closed doors, adopted a resolution calling the inquiry a study and appraisal.

But Thurmond told reporters he was satisfied.

He said there have been interpretations that the word study is synonymous with investigation.

Thurmond has rejected the idea of anything less than a full-scale investigation.

Members of the committee told reporters the inquiry will be handled by a subcommittee appointed or designated by Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga.

was a small child. I need any advice you can give me. —Feeling Insecure

Dear Feeling Insecure: If you have not discussed definite marriage plans, it's time for you to do so and ask that if he isn't sure now, how can he ever be more sure?

Marriage means making a home and having a genuine affection for each other. If your fiancée continues to coax you into a relationship you know is wrong, you may be better off returning his ring.

Tell him he will lose you unless he considers your wishes—and I'm very sure he will not kill himself.

Injured Fatally at Paragould

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP)—Mrs. H. W. Wooley, 60, of Paragould, was injured fatally Tuesday night in a traffic accident near Paragould.
Mrs. Wooley was riding with her husband when their automobile and another sideswiped. No one else was injured.
Mrs. Wooley at first was not believed injured seriously but her condition grew worse and she died early today, several hours after the accident.
A physician said death was due to shock, head injuries and chest injuries.

congressional race next year. The House Wednesday killed bills to create a state Crime Commission. It directed the Legislative Council to study the need for such a commission and report to the 1963 regular session.

The Senate did not call to a vote three bills appropriating $417,000 for livestock shows. This indicated that opponents could not get two votes needed for passage from the 10 senators who bent the bills Tuesday.

Legislative action was completed Wednesday on bills to appropriate $100,000 for the Arkansas Children's Colony, $67,900 to operate an overall college board, $275,000 for a vocational trade school and $27,900 in supplemental funds for the Workmen's Compensation Commission.

The House passed and sent to the Senate bills to authorize a 10 per cent admission tax at Little Rock's War Memorial Stadium to toughen child abandonment laws, to create a State Radiation Control Agency in the Health Department and to take the Department of Social Security Disability Determination from the Education Department and make it a separate agency.

The Senate sent to the House its version of all these bills except the child abandonment measure. That bill was recalled when Sen. Doug Bradley of Jonesboro said it violated constitutional guarantees of protection against false claims of fatherhood. The bill increases the maximum penalty for abandonment and brings women under terms of the law.

Faubus Wednesday moved to assure that a vocational school bill will not be killed in court on a technicality. He signed into law a bill setting up a permanent state educational fund from which money for the trade school was to be appropriated.

This cleared the way for Senate passage of the trade school bill with 24 votes—three short of the three-fourths majority needed for non-educational appropriations.

Faubus disposed of all bills left over from the first special session by signing two and vetoing three. Signed were bills to make surplus revenues available for a permanent construction fund and to establish the State Budget Revolving Fund.

Vetoed were bills to create a permanent construction fund from new taxes and general revenues, to provide $4 million for the construction fund after all maximum allotments from general revenues had been made, and to put extra horse and dog racing and use tax revenues into the construction fund.

BOSTON (AP)—Hurricane Esther, with winds up to 115 miles an hour, bore down on the populous southeastern New England coast today, well east of the New York metropolitan area.

The hurricane, described by the Weather Bureau as "capricious and dangerous," speeded up early today and its forward advance, previously about 15 miles an hour increased to 18. This led the Weather Bureau to predict the center would cross the southern coast of Massachusetts at 9 a.m. At 5 a.m. the center was located by radar 65 miles south of Block Island, R.I.

There were as yet no reports of loss of life and no known heavy damage although Rhode Island was just beginning to feel the hurricane's effects.

Hurricane warnings flew from Long Island to Eastport, Maine. A hurricane watch was in effect over western Long Island and Connecticut.

The Weather Bureau estimated winds in the center of the hurricane at 115 m.p.h. with hurricane force winds—75 mph and higher—extending 100 miles to the east and 75 miles to the west. Gale winds extended outward 350 miles to the east and 200 miles to the west.

The Weather Bureau predicted the size and intensity of the storm would remain about the same for the next 8 to 24 hours.

Up and down the coast, small boats by the hundreds had been hauled ashore or packed into protected harbors. Destroyers moved to safe moorings, military planes flew to inland fields, emergency vehicles scattered to danger spots. Disaster agencies—Red Cross, Civil Defense, police, National Guard—all were alerted.

Economists Think U.S. Can Do It

EDITOR'S NOTE—Is the economy stagnant and really in need of a helping hand from government? In this, third of four articles on the threat of inflation, Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, discusses the dispute over making more jobs at the risk of triggering another spurt in prices.

By SAM DAWSON AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—More jobs for more people—more spending money for a higher standard of living—more government spending to spur the economy's growth but without higher tax rates—more industrial output at moderately higher wage scales but at about the same price levels.

And all this without triggering a boom and bust or an unwelcome spurt in the cost of living that could be curbed only by federal controls over prices and wages and production.

Is it possible? Administration economists say we can achieve the goal with judicious government monetary action and proper labor and management restraint.

Critics of the administration policy, call it excessive, unjust greed by present conditions, and unlikely to succeed, judged by past experiences.

This dispute cuts deeper than today's headlined trading of jobs over whether steel companies can hold the price line or how high auto wages can go without setting a wage-price hiking pattern for other industries.

More basic is whether the economy is growing fast enough, whether unemployment can be licked, whether the government can intervene without its pump priming setting off another round of inflation.

President Kennedy and his Council of Economic Advisers say the economy must grow faster if jobs are to be found for an increasing labor force.

Walter Heller, chairman of the council, says that at the start of the year industry had the capacity to produce 8 per cent more than it actually did. He holds that the gap was due to a failure of demand for goods and services. He urges this demand be stimulated by a combination of easy money and greater government spending or, if that isn't enough, by lower taxes.

Mechanized factories with more efficient production methods would be expected to absorb moderate wage rises without increasing prices. And increased sales volume, even at present profit margins, would be counted upon to keep total earnings high enough.

Opponents challenge this. They deny that the economy is really stagnant. They contend that further government pump priming on top of the current business recovery would just bring on a boom and bust. They fear further inflationary weakening of the market-place value of the dollar, so that higher prices would nullify any apparent gain in wages.

Beyond this dispute two other questions are being asked with increasing frequency. How much unemployment is to be regarded as normal? Is creeping inflation really bad?

The old goal of minimum unemployment was 2 or 3 per cent of the labor force. That would include the hard core of the unemployed and those in transit from job to job or place to place. More recently have been added the unskilled for whom there is less demand in a mechanized age, and also those displaced workers whose particular skills have been taken over by machines.

The jobless total is now around 7 per cent of the labor force. President Kennedy has said he hopes his policies will bring this down fairly soon to 4 per cent.

Appointments for Marshals

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pat Henderson of England and Daniel Douglas of Bentonville are under consideration for appointment as U.S. marshals in Arkansas, an aide to Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said today.

But Fulbright's office declined to list any other persons being considered either for U.S. marshal or U.S. attorney posts in the state.

Henderson has applied for the post of U.S. marshal in the Eastern District and Douglas, in the Western District.

Henderson managed Sen. John McClellan's campaign for another term in 1954. He is a planter, a former state legislator and a former mayor of England.

Douglas, who is in the insurance business, is a former FBI agent. He is a brother of Hal Douglas, publisher of the Northwest Arkansas Times at Fayetteville, who is brother-in-law of Fulbright.

Democratic appointees to the marshals jobs will succeed Beal Kidd of Little Rock in the Eastern District and Jay Neal of Fort Smith in the Western District.

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP)—The Miller County Grand Jury Wednesday indicted Howell Martin, 41, of Texarkana on a first degree murder charge in connection with the death of his wife, Christine, 41, last July 17.

Mrs. Martin's body was found in the charred ruins of her home. Martin said he was in the yard when an explosion in the house started a fire.

Martin was arrested Wednesday night by sheriff's officers and placed in the county jail. No bond was set immediately.

The Ordinary Citizen Is Bewildered

By WILLIAM L. RYAN Associated Press News Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—If statesmen are stumped by threats of war and cascades of crises crashing down on this temple to peace, the world's ordinary citizens by now must be wholly bewildered.

The cold war has reached eerie heights of fantasy. Things happening daily seem to defy all logic. As Alice remarked in a happier Wonderland, things are getting curiously and curiously.

Just as an example, within a few hours there were these developments:

Item: Premier Khrushchev cited the words of Pope John XXIII as support for arguments put forward by atheistic communism.

Item: The U.S.S.R. Washington announced, set off its 14th nuclear blast in the atmosphere since Sept. 1. The Kremlin bitterly criticized the United States as a menace to peace for testing nuclear devices underground.

Item: The United States and the Soviet Union agreed in principle it would be a good idea to eliminate all nuclear weapons—all armies, for that matter. But they couldn't agree on how to get started talking about it.

Item: The U.N. was unable to find a way to name a new chief executive officer to replace Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, killed in Africa trying to restore peace in a new nation torn by pressures of a world political war.

Premier Khrushchev talks almost incessantly about peace. And he boasts that Soviet armed forces will have a bomb with the force of 100 million tons of TNT. Enough to blow a country off the map if it offends him.

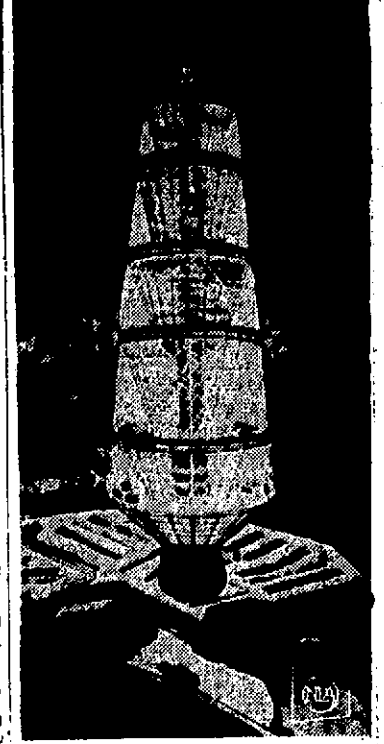

And in Communist North Viet Nam, a radio commentary happily labels that pretty weapon "the peace bomb."

War, claims the Kremlin, no longer is inevitable.

And, invariably in the same breath it claims war is just around the corner because the imperialists, principally the United States, "have insane plans for war against the Soviet Union."

As late as the 1920s, the capital of Mongolia, Urga now Ulan Bator featured the houses surrounded by the palisades of unpeeped logs.

TELEPHONE TALK

Carla Affects Arkansas

Hurricane Carla had some effects on our weather here in Hope last week, bringing rain and winds. On Monday, September 11, there were something over 2900 long distance calls placed in Hope, which was an all-time record. A good many of these calls were to the stricken Gulf-Coast area. Southwestern Bell of Arkansas sent 181 men and 71 vehicles into the Gulf area. Robert Mitchell of our local maintenance force was one of this number to go. Over 900 Bell System men, other than the Texas forces, are working in that area, that service might be restored as soon as possible.

To Each Her Own "Princess"

The ladies of Hope seem to have taken to the "Princess" telephone as though it were designed just for them. And in many ways, I guess it was.

For instance, it's little, light and easy to handle. It's styled to add a smart touch to any room in the house, and it lights up at night when you life the receiver. This makes it especially attractive and practical as a nightphone next to the bed. The "Princess" is available in five beautiful colors to suit every lady's good taste.

To make the princesses in your home even happier, give them a Princess phone for their bedroom. To order, simply call the Telephone Business Office or ask any telephone service man.

Hope Telephone "Pioneers" Observe 50th Anniversary

This year marks the 50th anniversary of the Telephone Pioneers of America. Back in 1911 the Pioneers' organization was founded. Telephone people with at least 21 years service with the telephone company were members as they are now.

Today, membership in the association is just as exclusive. But the Pioneers have grown into a nationwide organization devoted to three things—loyalty to the telephone industry, devotion to community welfare and Christian responsibility.

The Pioneer's emblem is a triangle that symbolizes fellowship, loyalty and service. As one long-time Pioneer put it, "Pioneering has no limits, regardless of vocation, age or time. The freedom we have to express ourselves covers all phases of human endeavor... enables us to pioneer in all phases of life... to improve physically, mentally and spiritually."

Call by number. It's twice as fast.

Cease-fire in Katanga Uneasy One

By COLIN FROST

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia (AP)—An uneasy cease-fire was proclaimed today in embattled Katanga but the danger of civil war still hung over the Congo. President Moise Tshombe of Katanga and the U.N. command signed a provisional cease-fire that froze the positions of their warring forces. Still unsettled is the issue that led to the shooting—Katanga's secession.

While a lull in the fighting was already evident before the peace pact was reached there were no immediate reports whether all shooting had stopped according to the timetable set for one minute past midnight.

A new threat came from the Congo central government, which has been a bystander during the eight days of fighting between the Katangan forces and U.N. troops acting at the government request.

With Tshombe as adamant as ever in keeping his mineral-rich province independent, Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula alerted the Congolese army with the declaration the central government would "spare no effort to end Katanga's secession."

Speaking in Leopoldville before the cease-fire was announced, Adoula warned his government "will reply to force with force."

The shadow of the late Patrice Lumumba hung over the Congo capital. Supporters of the slain leftist former premier demonstrated in the streets shouting anti-Western slogans, and Soviet diplomats, kicked out after Lumumba's overthrow, moved back to set up shop again.

The provisional cease-fire calling for a freeze in all military operations in Katanga was reached Wednesday night in a cordial but cool atmosphere on neutral grounds in this Northern Rhodesian frontier town.

Smiling and outwardly confident, Tshombe made the announcement first at a news conference. Mahmoud Khlari of Tunisia, who took over as chief U.N. negotiator after Dag Hammarskjold met his death in a plane crash flying to the peace talks, confirmed the agreement later.

Both sides emphasized that the agreement is subject to approval by U.N. headquarters in New York.

Saint's Blood Is Liquefied

NAPLES, Italy (AP)—Shouts of joy resounded in Naples' Cathedral today when attendants announced that the blood of the city's patron, St. Januarius, had liquefied.

The Manifestation considered a sign of good luck by Neapolitans, was said to have occurred after 20 minutes of prayers by the congregation.

The two vials reputed to hold the blood of the saint—normally dry—were then exhibited and kissed by thousands of the faithful. In the throng were many tourists, who came here for the annual demonstration, held on the feast day of St. Januarius.

Novelist Is Suicide

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Police said today that Dimitri Kandaurov, 59-year-old exiled Russian novelist, committed suicide by hanging himself in his home here Wednesday night.

Kandaurov worked for radio liberation, and anti-Communist radio station largely financed by private American money.

ATTRACTIVE ADDITION to Pontiac's new Tempest series for 1962 is the superbly styled convertible pictured above with the LeMans option, which includes front bucket seats in beautiful shades of expanded Jewellone Morrokide and rich floor carpeting. U.S.-Russia Open Talks on Berlin

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk opens a series of cold war talks with Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today in a delicate and dangerous diplomatic maneuver to find out whether the Soviet Union is interested in a compromise settlement of the Berlin crisis.

The two men scheduled a luncheon conference for the first of a series of discussions expected to continue into next week. Rusk invited Gromyko to the meeting in his suite at a midtown hotel. Several policy advisers on each side also will attend.

Berlin was the central issue of the meeting but aides of both men said there was no doubt they would also discuss the crisis in the United Nations arising from Soviet opposition to appointment of a successor to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

Gromyko gave no advance sign of any Soviet yielding on either of the two great problems that have brought the world's two mightiest powers into threatening confrontation.

Rusk was reported in an adamant mood, determined to warn the Soviet government anew of the war dangers in the Berlin dispute and of Western fears for the future of the U.N.

Rusk, who took the initiative in setting up the talks, faced the tricky task of sounding out Soviet views on Berlin negotiations without giving Gromyko any impression that the Western Allies are acting from weakness or fear of war. Such an impression, Western diplomats said, would increase the danger of war over Berlin by encouraging a Soviet miscalculation of Western intentions.

Rusk was reported intent on getting across two points to Gromyko: First, the Western powers will not consider negotiating away their West Berlin rights or tolerate interference with their access to the city. Second, the Western powers are prepared to negotiate on German problems, including Berlin, though they will not negotiate on the Soviet Union's terms.

Expansion of Fall-Out Detection

By FRANK CAREY

Associated Press Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Public Health Service is expanding its fallout detection network and is speeding efforts to determine whether any significant health hazard may be expected from the Soviet Union's nuclear tests in the atmosphere. It was learned today.

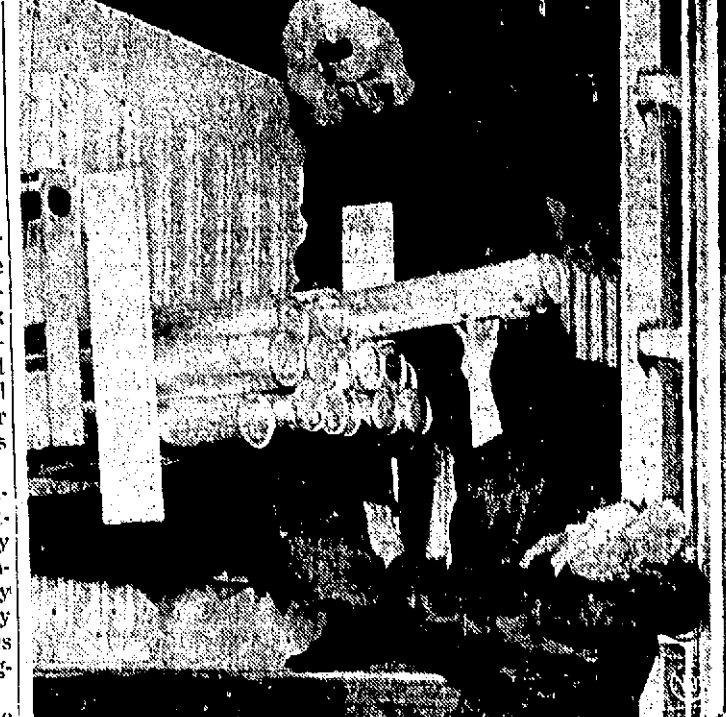

At the same time, top fallout experts of the agency told a reporter that even the comparatively high level of atmospheric radiation reported at least temporarily in some parts of the country could be exceeded many times without necessarily posing a significant health threat.

They said it all boils down to this: Regardless of what the atmospheric readings show, any threat to health depends on how much and what kinds of radioactive material ultimately are inhaled by people in milk, water and food—or are ingested.

So far, they said, they have not made sufficient tests to enable estimates on these latter points—but some new steps are designed to help speed such assessments.

They disclosed these new actions:

1. Two additional fallout detection stations were added during the past few days to the 45 stations in 39 states. The new ones are at Bismarck, N.D., and Nashville, Tenn.
2. Six of the approximately 60 stations maintained by the service's radiological health division to take samples of milk to allow analysis of radioactive content have been alerted to take samples every day, instead of monthly as all stations did previously.

ANCIENT ICEMEN—Two men, appropriately named Frost (but not related), have the task of moving the U.S. Army's valuable samples of glacial ice and snow, some of it 2,000 years old. These are cores drilled from 1,000 feet beneath the surface at Little America in Antarctica. The rare specimens are being taken to Hanover, N.H., where they will be used in weather research. At right is Robert Frost; Ralph Frost is inside the specially cooled truck.

Russians Claim Many Over 100

LONDON (AP)—Soviet scientists reported today that Russia has 21,000 centenarians and most of them live in six "zones of longevity."

Tass, the Soviet news agency, defined these zones as "geographic areas with the greatest concentration of persons aged 100 years or more."

They are: the Caucasus, South Russia, Ukraine-Moldavia, Siberia, Central Asia-Kazakhstan and Byelorussia-Lithuania.

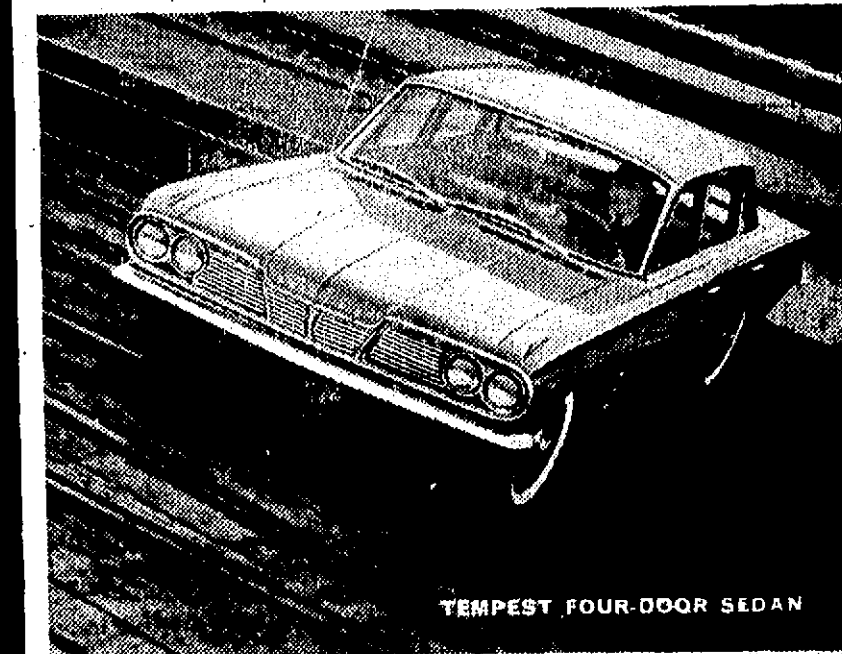

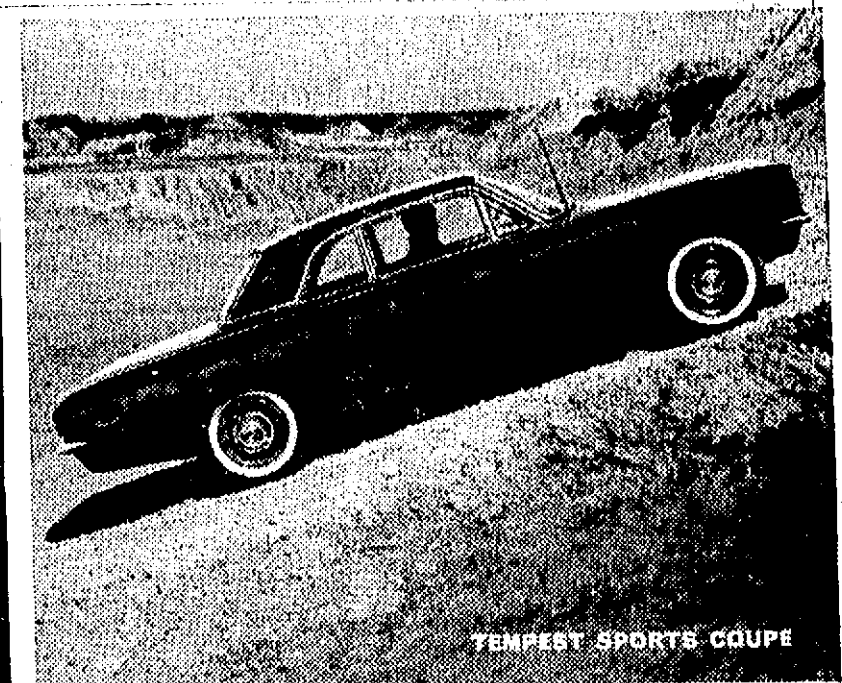

Chimpanzees brought up in human families behave remarkably like children in their early years.

Atlanta; Jackson, Miss.; Charlotte, S.C.; Tampa, Fla.; New Orleans and St. Louis. And analyses will be done for these stations by the health service's laboratory at Montgomery, Ala.

3. Ten of the stations in the nationwide network of fallout detection stations are being equipped with special apparatus designed to get better estimates than heretofore of the actual amount of radioactive iodine-131 which may be present in air samples.

The stations getting the new "iodine samplers," reported Ernest Anderson, chief of technical operation, are located at Seattle, Wash.; Berkeley, Calif.; Phoenix, Ariz.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Boise, Idaho; Helena, Mont.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; Madison, Wis.; Anchorage, Alaska and Rockville, Md.

The gas-saving "4" with Pontiac Punch!

PONTIAC TRIGGERS ANOTHER TEAM OF WINNERS. Every one is a fancy mover. Choice of 110, 115, 120 or 140 h.p., gas-saving 4-cylinder engine. A couple of extra cost options: 4-barrel carb, 166 h.p. Plenty of punch without big maintenance and running costs. The citizen who wants more can go for an aluminum V-8 option that pulls 185 horses.

TEMPEST HAS A FRONT ENGINE/REAR TRANSMISSION! (The only American car with this feature.) It gives Tempest equal weight at every wheel. It has biting traction on the bricks or in the mud. Tires last longer. Brakes take hold like they mean it. The front floor is practically flat (no big hump in the middle). Tempest seats six—easily!

TEMPEST HAS INDEPENDENT SUSPENSION—FRONT AND REAR! Each wheel (and it's a big 15" one) moves up and down independently of the opposite wheel. There's no solid axle in the rear. Result: Firm ride on pavement, soft ride in the boondocks! Swing axles in the rear help the Tempest to carvo out clean, firm curves.

PLUSH NEW SERIES—THE LE MANS (LUH-MAHNZ). The Tempest Convertible and Coupe are out this year in special custom trim. Call them the Le Mans! They both have sports-type bucket seats, full carpeting, floor mounted stick shift, acceleration rear axle option—no extra cost. Extra cost option: 4-speed gearbox. Take one out—it's a going machine!

Drive America's only front engine/rear transmission car...it's balanced like none of the others!

Reds Clearing Out Wall Strip

BERLIN (AP)—The Communists appeared to be moving slowly today in their campaign to clear residents from a strip along the wall dividing Berlin.

Moving vans failed to turn up along the city's 25-mile border, after more than 250 people were moved out of their apartments Wednesday by the Communists.

Toues Deutschland, central organ of the East German Communist party, said that moving vans would be in evidence all over East Berlin during the next weeks and months.

"Happy tenants will be moving into their new homes," the paper said. It claimed that during the first eight months of this year, 5,000 new apartments had been built in East Berlin.

China Crisis Again Issue Before UN

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States and the Soviet Union come to grips today on the perennial issue of giving Red China a U.N. seat. For the first time in a decade both agree the General Assembly should debate the question.

The two big powers are sure to clash, however, when the 21-nation Steering Committee meets later in the day to decide how the explosive question shall be placed before the 99-nation assembly.

Still opposed to admitting the Peiping regime, the United States has agreed only to assembly debate on the issue.

The Red China issue was one of several serious cold war disputes that cropped up either on the agenda or in the background almost as soon as the assembly met Tuesday. Among others are Berlin, disarmament and the future of the United Nations itself.

This last involves the task of choosing a successor to the late Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, in the face of stern Soviet opposition.

In the Steering Committee, the United States is determined to block the Soviet demand that the United Nations recognize Peiping as rightful holder of the seat now occupied by Nationalist China.

The U.S. delegation announced support for a New Zealand proposal to debate the over-all question of who should represent China. And the U.S. or one of its allies is expected to move for creation of a special committee to study the issue and report back to the assembly next year.

Aware that this would have the same effect as shelving the issue, the Communists are certain to fight the maneuver. But delegates believe the study plan will get majority support.

In the hunt for a new secretary-general, the Soviet Union killed hopes of East-West agreement by turning down a widely supported plan to name a representative of a nonaligned nation as interim successor until a permanent secretary-general can be agreed upon.

The Soviets insisted they would settle only for Premier Khrushchev's troika plan—a three-man board representing the Western, Communist and neutral nations, each with veto power.

The Western powers are certain such a setup would paralyze the United Nations. They were reported determined to press for a one-man authority, even if it means naming an interim chief who would not be recognized by the Soviets.

The Berlin crisis comes up in private talks between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. They are trying to pave the way to East-West negotiations, but Rusk wants to find out first whether the Soviets are willing to talk about mutual concessions or simply want to force Western approval of their policies for Germany.

Complete failure was reported Wednesday by the two powers in their attempts to reopen negotiations on disarmament. But they did announce a statement of principles for future negotiations which will open the way for what promises to be a detailed disarmament debate.

17,000 Will Train at Ft. Chaffee

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—More than 17,000 military and civilian personnel will be quartered at Ft. Chaffee by mid-December in a new training mission.

Maj. Gen. William C. Bullock, commanding general of the 19th U.S. Army Corps, headquartered at Chaffee for the past two years, will be post commander as he was before the post was deactivated in 1959.

It was announced Wednesday that advance detachments of the 100th Division from Kentucky plus cadre from Fourth Army installations, would arrive before Oct. 1.

The 100th, which will be part of the training force, is expected between Oct. 1-4.

The 4002d Garrison Unit of Ardmore and Oklahoma City will report for duty on Oct. 1 and will move to Chaffee on Oct. 16 to receive the first trainees.

Four other units will mobilize at their home stations on Oct. 9 and report to Chaffee on Oct. 16. These include the 404th Ordnance Co. of Monticello. Seven other Arkansas National Guard and Army Reserve units were ordered to active duty. Four will report to Chaffee.

Marion Davies in Hospital

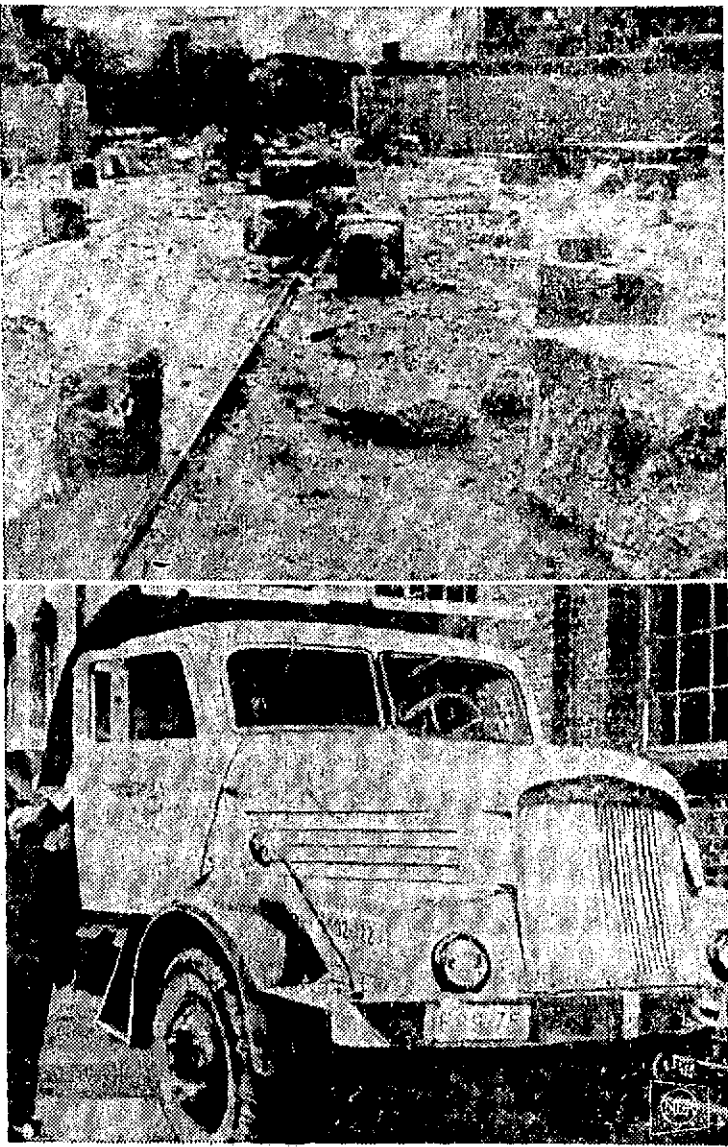

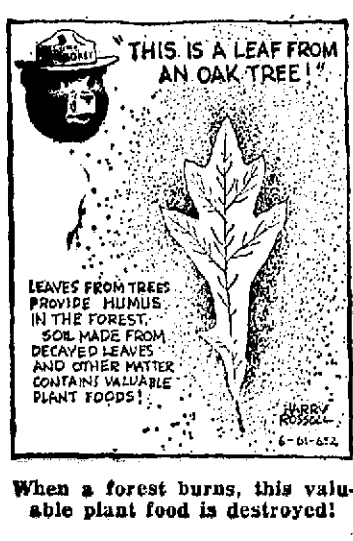

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Former actress Marion Davies may die at any hour, her physicians report.

She said Wednesday she had been administered last rites of the Roman Catholic Church last week when her death seemed near.

Miss Davies, 61, entered Cedars of Lebanon Hospital May 16. She was operated on June 7 for osteomyelitis of the jaw. Osteomyelitis is an inflammation of bone marrow.

Twelve days after surgery, Miss Davies fell in the hospital room and broke her left leg.

Smokey Says:

WALL CAME TUMBLING DOWN—Huge chunks of concrete (top photo) mark the scene in Berlin of a dramatic dash for freedom by three East Germans. The men crashed a truck through the Communists' border wall and escaped safely into West Berlin. The truck knocked a 15-foot-wide hole in the wall (background) and scattered blocks of concrete for 35 yards. Below, looking little the worse for wear, the six-ton truck is inspected by an unidentified man.

Maris Fails in Record Try But Flag Sewed Up

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Roger Maris strode to the plate in the top of the ninth, dug in and fouled the first pitch by knuckleball specialist Hoyt Wilhelm back of the plate. Wilhelm wound up again, let go and Maris tried to check his swing. He couldn't.

The ball trickled down the first base line.

On that note ended the most who had hit No. 50 in the third, homer record of 1927 as Maris, serious threat to Babe Ruth's 60-inning, failed in his final chance to tie baseball's most prized record under the 154-decision edict of Commissioner Ford Frick.

All eyes were on Maris while he took his final shots at the Babe's mark in Baltimore, where the Yankees clinched their 26th American League pennant by whipping the Orioles 4-2 Wednesday night.

"I wanted to get three good swings whether I hit it or not," said Maris in the dressing room while expressing regret over his last time at bat. "The way it turned out, I didn't get one. I would have liked to have taken a full swing."

Thus Maris joins a long list of home hammerers who have come within range of Ruth's record, but failed. Roger, however, tied Ruth's mark of 50 in 1921. He became only the second man in major league baseball history to hit that many and still has eight games under the expanded schedule in which to match or surpass Ruth's total.

Hank Greenberg's hit 59 homers for Detroit in 1938.

The honor of clinching the Yanks 11th pennant in the last 13 years went to Ralph Terry (15-3) who got the job done for the second year in a row with a four-hitter that made Ralph Houk the first rookie manager in 15 years to win a major league flag.

The last American League first year pilot to do it was Mickey Cochrane of the Detroit Tigers in 1934.

The Yankees wrapped it up with a three-run rally in the third started by Maris' homer off Milt Pappas (12-9). Yogi Berra then followed with a homer and a single by Johnny Blanchard and Elston Howard's double finished off the outburst for a 4-0 lead.

The Cincinnati Reds continued their drive toward the National League flag by beating the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2 for their eighth win in the last nine games.

The victory cut the Reds magic number to four and maintained their five-game lead over the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers, who edged the Chicago Cubs 3-2 in 13 innings. Milwaukee whipped San Francisco 7-4 and Philadelphia defeated St. Louis 6-1.

The Detroit Tigers remained well ahead of the Orioles in the battle for second place in the AL by beating Los Angeles 6-3 when Chico Fernandez stroked a bases-loaded double that featured a four-run tie-breaking rally in the seventh inning.

Chicago's Ray Herbert defeated Boston 3-1 with a seven-hitter and Bobby DeGrecio hit a two-run homer in the ninth that gave Kansas City a 4-2 win over Cleveland in other games. Minnesota-Washington was rained out.

Quarterbacks Featured in Play Saturday

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Four of the country's top college quarterbacks will pair off Saturday when the schedule is loaded with intersectional games.

There should be quite a dogfight at Berkeley, Calif., where Cal's Golden Bears, led by Randy Gold, or perhaps fast-improving Larry Balliett meet the Mike Cotten-led Texas team. Then in Laramie, Wyo., North Carolina State, with Roman Gabriel showing the way, Wyo., North Carolina State, with Roman Gabriel showing the way, plays Wyoming, the top Skyline team led by Chuck Lamson.

It is hard to come up with four better quarterbacks in any section, and with the exception of Gabriel, three are equally adept at running as well as passing.

Gabriel has been accorded reams of advance publicity as the nation's No. 1 college quarterback and because of this, N.C. State has been given the nod as the team to beat in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Lamson, a transfer student from Iowa State, led the Cowboys in total offense and passing, and was second in rushing last year. Marv Levy, Cal's coach, isn't yet satisfied that Gold is his best quarterback. Last year, he was third in total offense in the Big Five and ranked second in passing with 696 yards, completing 65 of 117 attempts. Balliett has done quite a bit with Cal's first unit. Cotten carried the ball 81 times

Creekmore in Finals at Ft. Smith

Match play begins today in the 36th annual Hardscrabble Invitational Amateur golf tournament, with medalist Steve Creekmore Jr. of Fort Smith taking on Ch. Galloway of Springfield, Mo.

Defending champion, Richard Sikes of Springdale, Ark., met Oren Amyx of West Plains, Mo., in the first round. Sikes didn't have to qualify.

Creekmore, the tournament chairman and champion in 1952, shot a 4-under-par 68 in Wednesday qualifying round. He notched five birdies despite a hard wind that pushed most of the 32 championship flight qualifiers above par.

Don Bowers of Fort Smith was second with a 70. Then came John Miller of Minneapolis, Terry Wilcox of Stillwater, Okla., and Sam Spikes of Little Rock. All shot 71s.

Galloway, Creekmore's first-round opponent, shot an 83 in the qualifying round.

Bowers met Gene Towne of Dallas, Tex., in the first round. A field of 169 qualified for the championship flight and lower flights. The 32 championship flighters begin a grueling round of eliminations today.

One 18-hole match is scheduled today and Friday, two Saturday and one Sunday.

John Schlee of Memphis, who lost to Sikes in the final round of the National Public tournament, shot a 74 in the qualifying round.

In Coach Darrell Royal's split-T offense last year, and picked up 135 yards. He was the leading scorer with 30 points on five TDs.

Amazing Reds Methodical in Flag Push

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Those amazing Cincinnati Reds, a questionable product in the National League race when the season began, have gone methodically about the business of trying to nail down their first pennant in 21 years with a potent patent on winning one-run games.

The Reds did it again Wednesday night, edging the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2 on Wally Post's two-run homer in the eighth inning for their eighth victory in the last nine games and a 34-14 won-lost record in one-run games.

The victory went to right-hander Joey Jay (21-8), the only NL pitcher with 20 wins, and reduced the Reds' magic pennant-clinching number to four over second-place Los Angeles. The Dodgers also won by a single run, nipping Chicago 3-2 in 13 innings.

Milwaukee beat San Francisco 7-4 and Philadelphia defeated St. Louis 6-1 in other games.

In the American League, Roger Maris connected for his 50th homer but failed to get the 60th that would have tied Babe Ruth's 1927 record while the New York Yankees clinched their 26th American League pennant by whipping the Baltimore Orioles 4-2.

Detroit hopped Los Angeles 6-3, Chicago beat Boston 3-1, and Kansas City defeated Cleveland 4-2. Minnesota-Washington was postponed by rain.

Post's 20th homer came with Vada Pinson on base via a walk and brought the Reds from behind to beat the Pirates and reliever Elroy Face (6-11).

The Dodgers, beaten two nights in a row by the seventh-place Cubs, remained five games behind the first-place Reds by pushing the winning run across in the 13th when Wally Moon singled, reached second on a ground out, moved to third on a passed ball and scored on Ron Fairly's two-out single.

Sandy Koufax (18-11) went the distance for the victory, striking out 5 for a 25th total this season, and moved within eight of tying the modern league record of 267 by Christy Mathewson, of the New York Giants in 1903. Barney Schultz (7-6), third Chicago pitcher, was the loser.

Assault on Record Was No Failure

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Roger Maris' relentless assault on Babe Ruth's hallowed home run record ended in defeat Wednesday night, but in no way could it be interpreted as a failure.

The left-handed slugger, battling against almost impossible odds, missed matching the immortal Bambino's 60 homers in a 154-game season by the narrowest of margins—just one.

Trailing by two home runs with just one more game remaining, playing in a park which had throttled him in all 26 previous efforts, Maris not only walloped his 59th home run of the season but came breathlessly close to smashing two more.

Had the two he barely missed been fair instead of foul, the crew-cut blond from Raytown, Mo., would have achieved the feat of the century.

Only two others had seriously threatened that mark—Jimmy Fox with 58 in 1932 and Hank Greenberg with 59 in 1938.

The crowd of 21,032, naturally devoted to Ruth, a native Baltimorean, gave Maris, 27, a standing ovation after he had sent a dribbler down the first base line on a checked swing in his last try.

"I tried," he said later. "I didn't quite make it, but I tried."

And how Maris tried.

In the first inning, facing Milt Pappas, Baltimore's ace right-hander, he drove a screaming liner to Earl Robinson in deep right.

In the third inning, with Pappas still on the mound, he smashed a 2-1 pitch, a sort of high liner, into the right field bleachers, about 390 feet from the plate. The homer electrified the audience, which realized he still had at least two more cracks at homer No. 60.

Dick Hall, another right-hander, was on the mound when Maris came to bat in the fourth. With a 0-2 count, Roger whacked a liner which landed in the stands, about eight feet foul and some 15 feet short of the right field bleachers. Many in the crowd, on his side by that time, groaned.

Again in the seventh, Maris flirted with fame when he hit a long drive deep into the right field bleachers. This one was about 20 to 25 feet foul.

Now it was the ninth. There 857; Terry, New York, 5-3, .833. Strikeouts—Pascual, Minnesota, 207; Ford, New York, 199.

Perhaps Man Is Not That Intelligent

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Optimism, that little fire burning brightly in the dark woods of the world, got rained on again. So those who insist man is too intelligent to blow himself to blazes must still wait and see.

Talks between the United States and Russia, not only on banning nuclear tests but on disarmament in general, have broken down. On Sept. 9 the two powers recessed their conversations on banning nuclear tests after 340 sessions in 34 months. It was about time, since the Soviets, after a layoff of almost three years, had already resumed testing.

Premier Khrushchev brushed aside such talks anyway. He said there would be no more moratoriums on nuclear tests until there was agreement on general disarmament.

For the inhabitants of the sunny were two out. Hoyt Wilhelm was on the mound.

"Just one good swing," Maris muttered grimly to himself. "Just one good swing. That's all I want."

He never got that "one good swing."

The ball struck the bat and dribbled down the first base line. Wilhelm fielded the ball himself and tagged the dejected Maris just off first base.

"I'm glad it's over," Maris said later. "It's a great relief. But I'm disappointed it had to end this way. If I wasn't going to make it, at least I wanted to go down swinging. The way it turned out, I didn't get one good swing."

Smokey Says:

Be sure your match is out!

side of the street this was indeed gloomy news but not altogether black because ever since mid summer the United States and Russia had been holding separate talks on disarmament.

Rather, the two sides—in sessions in Washington, Moscow and New York—had not actually been discussing disarmament but only how to set up full-scale discussion on disarmament.

Then Wednesday this collapsed too. The United States and Russia reported to the United Nations the complete failure of their talks on how to start talking about disarmament in general.

Since the end of the war in 1945 the two countries have had perhaps thousands of conversations on disarmament, just the two of them alone or in various international groups in various places. The result is still nothing.

This naturally raises some questions which, while old, are still unanswered:

1. Does Russia really want disarmament or is it stalling until it acquires such a frightening arsenal of weapons that it can terrorize the world into submission?

2. Is it to the best interest of the United States ever to disarm so long as Russia and Red China, with their endless resources of manpower, persist in their campaign to own the earth?

3. Is it possible for a number of nations to have the most modern weapons—the United States, Russia, Britain and France have them and Red China will soon—without getting into war with them, by design or accident?

Only one thing is certain: Until there is a disarmament agreement, and no one is offering odds there will be, the United States and Russia will keep on trying to outdo each other in thinking up ever more nightmare weapons.

Hog, Old Miss Contest to Be Televised

By JAMES SAGGUS

JACKSON Miss. (AP)—Mississippi and Arkansas, two ancient rivals with old scores to settle, usher big-time football into new Mississippi Memorial Stadium Saturday in the final battle of their current tension-packed series.

The combination of high title hopes, a bitter series history and a new stadium caught the imagination of fans before tickets went on sale and all seats were quickly sold.

The schools have severed football relations after this year.

Coach John Vaughn's Rebels whipped Arkansas 10-7 last year on a controversial field goal to even the series at 2 games each. Arkansas supporters claimed the field goal had missed and verbal battle raged for days.

Both teams went on to fine finishes, with the undefeated but once-led Rebels winning the Southeastern Conference title and Arkansas taking the Southwest Conference crown. Both are picked to be topflight contenders this season.

This will be their first meeting in Jackson and the first game in the new 46,000-seat stadium. The game, to be telecast nationally (ABC), will be the first half of a day-night double-header. Kickoff time is 2:30 p.m. (CST). Texas Tech and Mississippi State play in the nightcap.

Coach Frank Broyles has built the Arkansas running game around topflight halfbacks Lance Alworth, a native of Brookhaven, Miss., once ticketed for Mississippi, and Paul Dudley, both seasoned veterans.

Broyles has 19 lettermen back from his championship team of 1960.

At Mississippi, halfbacks Art Doby and Louis Guy, both lettermen, add speed and elusiveness to the starting backfield.

Russia Ready With Space Platform

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—The Soviet Union reportedly has a rocket capable of orbiting a 12-ton satellite and already is building a space platform which Premier Khrushchev has called the "ultimate atomic warfare weapon."

This report, unconfirmed by other sources, came from Killoso Haan, a former Korean underground worker during World War II who now is a naturalized American citizen.

Haan, who says his information comes from inside Communist territory, submitted to President Kennedy Sept. 9 information which said Khrushchev had advised Red Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung of the powerful new rocket and that the space platform was being built.

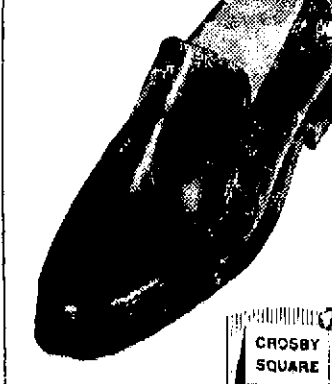

Haan, who lives here, is western divisional sales manager for a Duluth, Minn. food concern.

Stage Set for Additional Inflation

EDITOR'S NOTE—What does inflation do for you? In this, the second of four articles, Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, discusses the theories of what might cause another jump in the cost of living.

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—All the angry words today about the stage being set for another round on the value of the dollar may confuse as many persons as it enlightens. Inflation wears many guises. It may be a pleasant rise in wage scales for labor—in other words, an unpleasant hike in costs for the boss. It may be a pleasant increase in prices and dollar profits for those who have something to sell, be it goods or services—that is, a jolt to those who have to pay more out of their weekly earnings—a cruel blow to those trying to get by on fixed incomes, such as pensions. Or inflation may be what the orthodox economist sees—a pumping up of the supply of money until it loses part, maybe all, of its purchasing value.

The classic example in this century is Germany after World War I. The government printed more and more paper currency, until finally it took a billion or more of paper marks to get what one metal mark did before the war. Savings disappeared, no one wanted money, only tangible goods. Germany's financial structure collapsed.

After World War II the United States had classic inflation, but in a milder form. There was too much money chasing too few goods—the popular definition.

There was too much money because the supply of paper money and bank credit had been swelled during the war so that the government could buy the military hardware it needed and pay other costs. This swollen supply was in the hands of the banks, of business, of consumers.

There were too few goods because during the war consumer goods production was held down. At the end of the war there was a great backlog of demand for scarce consumer goods of all types; lots of money with which to bid for them; and therefore a big rise in prices because consumers were willing to pay high to get what producers could offer.

By the time of the 1949 recession it took $172 to buy that $100 would have before the war.

The Korean War, and the easy money policy that helped finance it, sent the prices on another, if milder, whirl. By the time of the 1954 recession it took $192 to buy what $100 would buy before World War I.

Since then the supply of money and credit has been increased now and then in periods of government deficit financing. But the other factor—too few goods—has rarely been a problem. There have been fewer and fewer shortages, and now there's a potential capacity to produce too many goods.

In late years, therefore, two other explanations for the rise in the cost of living have been advanced.

One is the cost-push theory. Put simply, this is: Wages have gone

Salisbury Steaks in Wine Sauce

Salisbury Steaks with Wine Sauce is a new variation of an old-time favorite. Ground beef is combined with ground pork and rolled oats to make juicy Salisbury Steaks with a mushroom wine sauce for additional flavor.

For maximum tenderness, handle with a light touch when mixing. Rolled oats speed up the preparation of this recipe. They are ready to use just as they come from the package, no additional preparation is needed. In addition to convenience, rolled oats make contributions of protein, B vitamins, and minerals.

Salisbury Steaks in Wine Sauce
1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1/2 pound ground pork
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 cup rolled oats, quick or regular
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 cup milk or tomato juice
2 tablespoons fat
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup water
1 beef bouillon cube
1/2 cup sherry
1 can (4 ounce) mushroom caps and pieces

Combine meats, onion, rolled oats, salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce, and milk or tomato juice. Mix well. Divide into 8 portions and shape each portion into an oval patty. Heat fat in large frying pan. Brown patties on both sides in hot fat, turning once (about 15 minutes). Remove meat from pan. Stir flour into meat drippings, add water and bouillon cube, cook until smooth and thickened. Stir in wine and mushrooms. Return meat to fry pan; cover and lower heat. Cook until patties are done, about 15 additional minutes.

on rising each year under union pressure. Added to this greater labor cost are all the other factors: Higher transportation, distribution, repair, servicing charges. These steadily rising costs have pushed prices higher.

This has been offset to a debatable degree by a rise in productivity—more goods from fewer men—and automatic controls to get more goods from fewer men. Labor insists that productivity has risen as fast as or faster than operating costs. Management contends it's the other way around.

Another explanation for the rise in the cost of living is the price-push theory, sometimes called administered prices. The charge is that industry has hiked prices deliberately and by agreement among competitors by keeping production in check. The aim has been higher profits from which more dividends can be paid and more funds put into expansion.

These are the three charges being argued with increasing heat

Police Slayer Given Death Penalty

JACKSON, Mo. (AP)—California gunman Sammy Aire Tucker, 26, has been formally sentenced to die Nov. 1 in the Missouri Gas Chamber for the slaying last March of a Cape Girardeau, Mo. policeman.

Circuit Judge Ray Weightman overruled a motion for a new trial for the Fresno, Calif., desperado and passed sentence Tuesday.

Defense attorneys immediately filed notice they would appeal to the Missouri Supreme Court.

Patrolman Donald H. Crittendon, 27, was fatally shot in a gun battle just 1 1/2 hours before he was to leave the police force for other work.

An auxiliary policeman, Herbert Goss, 67, was also killed in the gun fight while trying to arrest Tucker and Douglas Wayne Thompson, 27, of Bakersfield, Calif.

The Californians, on a cross-country tour financed by stickups had aroused the suspicions of a supermarket manager, who notified police.

Tucker was found March 11, the day after the shooting, wounded alongside a country road.

Thompson was successful for one week in eluding a 100-man posse, was captured near Poplar Bluff after another gun battle in which a bystander was killed and a Missouri Highway Patrolman wounded.

He is serving a life sentence for that killing and is to go on trial for the Goss killing Oct. 24. This trial will be held at Marble Hill, Mo., on a change of venue.

Ex-Arkansan Faces Charge of Murder

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A 58-year-old welder, a former Arkansan, has been charged with the murder of his wife and a 24-year-old man.

The charges against Martin Steven Littleton were filed after an early Sunday shooting at his home.

Killed by shotgun blasts were Mrs. Helen W. Littleton, 34, who also came from Arkansas, and John Elkie Brooks, 24, who lived in a small house at the rear of the Littleton home.

Littleton told police Brooks took Mrs. Littleton and three Littleton children to a motion picture theater and did not return until early Sunday.

Littleton formerly lived at Newport, Ark., but Newport sources said he left there some years ago.

Mrs. Littleton once lived at Weona, Poinsett County, Ark. Her body was sent to Newport.

Gives Tips on Way to Keep Young

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—"The best way to stay young," said Fredrick March, "is to regard the world as a workshop."

At 64 March, still physically trim and one of the handsomest men in show business, has no desire to sit in a front porch rocker waiting for Uncle Sam to send him his Social Security check.

Neither he nor his wife, Florence Eldridge—for a generation they've been one of the nation's best known theatrical couples—plans retirement, or regards it as a rainbow blessing.

"Maybe the youngsters have time to daydream about retiring," said March. "But not us."

"We're tapering off a little, but we both feel that if we don't keep growing by trying new things we'll vegetate—and that is no existence."

"I feel sorry for business men who are retired automatically. To have to close your desk on your 65th birthday, when you are really the same you were the day before—that is tragic."

"It is better to taper off, to let go gradually."

It is hard to see where March is tapering off. Winner of two Academy awards, he recently completed his 65th film, "The Young Doctors." He is now rehearsing for a role in the new Broadway play, "Gideon," which may be his 81st or 101st stage vehicle.

"I'm not sure which it is," he said. "I never kept track of them."

March switched to acting after he found a youthful career as an embryo bank executive stultifying. An attack of appendicitis gave him the leisure, while recuperating, to decide to gamble on a life in the theater.

It proved a rewarding choice in more ways than one. As a film matinee idol March played against most of the top feminine stars of his time, ranging from Clara Bow to Tallulah Bankhead, Greta Garbo and Kim Novak.

As long ago as 1937 the U.S.

Treasury listed him as the fifth top-salaried man in the nation. He got $484,687 that year.

His 40-plus years in the entertainment field have given March some theories on survival.

"To last you have to keep healthy in body and mentally and to remember that you are no bigger an actor than you are a person."

"I think it's unwise if you become involved in just the amusement world. You warp yourself as a person if you do. That is a pitfall to avoid."

"The more interested you become in others the better you become in your own job."

The boredom and ennui that afflict some actors hasn't touched March, and he doubts that it ever will. He added:

"Acting can be a very healthy life. Many actors live to be quite old, and as for actresses—well, they seem to last forever."

Paar Pet Hate of Movie Industry

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jack Paar is the movie industry's hate of the week, thanks to his performance at the bastion of Berlin.

Paar's penchant for trouble bounced back on Hollywood. Congress and the Pentagon hit the ceiling at reports of troops being used as extras for Paar's show from Berlin.

Some congressmen aimed their complaints at the use of troops in movies, especially Darryl Zanuck's current "The Longest Day." There were calls for a review of the practice of service cooperation with movie makers.

All this pained the producers and no doubt the Pentagon, too. For 20 years, Hollywood and the services have been working together in an alliance that was both smooth and little known. Both sides claim it has been mutually profitable.

The alliance hasn't been noised about for an obvious reason. Too much publicity would cause politicians to question—with some justice—about such use of taxpayers' money. That is exactly what happened in the Paar case.

How does the system operate? A producer sends his script to the Pentagon with a request for service cooperation. A board reviews the script with an eye toward how the service is portrayed. If in a bad light, cooperation is refused. Or the board might point out what it found objectionable and leave it to the producer whether he wanted to make changes.

"From Here to Eternity" kicked around Hollywood for years until the late Buddy Adler found ways to make it palatable to the Army. "The Caine Mutiny" also required changes before the Navy would lend its ships.

"Most service pictures couldn't be made without Pentagon help," explained a top producer. "We couldn't afford to pay for that many extras. And we would have to means of securing the equipment."

What is the advantage of cooperation to the services?

No. 1, they can control film material, so irresponsible producers cannot portray the services in a derogative way.

No. 2, there is the intangible matter of morale and enlistment glamor.

Who can measure the effect of these films in World War II: "Wake Island," "Purple Heart," "Destination Tokyo," "The Story of G.I. Joe," "30 Seconds Over Tokyo," "They Were Expendable," "Air Force," "Winged Victory"?

Or of these films since then: "Battleground," "To Hell and Back," "The Bridge at Toko-Ri," "Sands of Iwo Jima," "Strategic Air Command," "The Halls of Montezuma"?

Said a producer: "It would be tragic if Paar wiped out Zanuck's picture. D-Day is a great chapter in American courage and especially timely today by its portrayal of Allied cooperation. It deserves to be told."

Lightning starts some 27,500 fires a year in the United States alone and kills hundreds of people.

Chapter XXVIII

A Texas car came in to Pinkwater's station. Holzapfel could tell by the way it crawled up the ramp that the driver had, or ought to have, terrible trouble. The car, a 1958, came over toward the grease room. Horsecollar came out.

The Texan was saying, "I ran this bunch of loose rocks up the pass, see? There was an awful clunk. After that, every time I hit the least dip or bump, it sounded like something was falling apart."

Horsecollar nodded sagely. "I'll get up on the rack and have a look at it."

"You think you can fix it?"

"I think so. It'll take a little time, maybe," Horsecollar looked at his watch. "If you folks want to get something to eat while I'm at it."

"Let's do, Henry," the wife said.

It took Horsecollar three minutes to find the trouble, a large crack fragment wedged between the frame and body in such a way that any dip of the body would cause a thumping impact of frame and rock. Horsecollar pried the rock loose. He cleaned the shock absorbers and sprayed them with quick-drying black paint.

When the Texan returned the car was still on the hoist.

"You wrecked a shock," Horsecollar said. "I had to put in new ones."

The Texan took a quick look. "It's all right now?"

the Texan either."

Pinkwater almost said that only $22.50 was the difference. He went back to his desk to ponder. He pondered about the degree of cheating involved. Everyone chided in business, big and little, states and nation.

Clipping customers at four bits a throw hadn't bothered him. Why was he balking at a bigger transaction?

He kept dividing 46 customers by 50 cents. Unorthodox as that was, it still came out $23 every time.

All right, he thought. I'm a happy 50-cent crook and a shaky $23 one; and then, inexorably, he went the rest of the way: he was a thief at any price.

After a time he returned to the grease room with a clutch of money and an addressed envelope. "You go to the post office right now, Horsecollar, and send that guy his dough. No explanation, just the money."

Horsecollar started to grin, and then he grew sober as he looked at Pinkwater narrowly. A respect that Horsecollar seldom felt for any white man gleamed in his eyes. "Okay, boss."

With Horsecollar dispatched, Pinkwater told Bobby Armitage, "From now on, we'll sell oil only when they need oil."

"Aw, gee, Pinky! I'm hitting 80 per cent the way—"

"When they need oil. That's it."

"But the contest—"

"Those Mickey Mouse watches aren't worth having around."

Dr. Snoddy accompanied Geology 2 on its expeditions with Miss Cowgill beside him. So vital were his informal talks about the history of the earth as recorded in its rocks that Mickey and Rockabilly began trailing along with the

Reds Try to End Leaps to Escape

BERLIN (AP) — Communist authorities dispatched trucks, men and armored cars today to clear out border apartment houses where East Berliners have been leaping from windows or sliding down ropes from buildings into West Berlin.

Nine successful jumps were reported Tuesday night.

Along several miles of the 25-mile border between East and West Berlin, houses on one side of the street belong to the East and the street to the West. The Communists have bricked up ground floor doors and windows, but upper stories are mostly open.

The moving men wore white armbands, apparently a sign that they belonged to some special unit.

Escapes from such houses have been a part of the Berlin scene ever since the border was closed Sept. 13.

students just to hear him talk.

Previously, Miss Cowgill had always eaten with her students but now she and Dr. Snoddy fell into the habit of having dinner late. Sometimes they took short walks afterward and not always did they discuss geology.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — John M. Davies of Batesville was apparent lower bidder Tuesday on the moving of 455 graves from nine Benton County cemeteries which will be flooded by waters of the Beaver Dam Reservoir. Army Engineers said Davies, bid was $18,405.

U. S. to Have Time Keeping Out China

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — For 10 years straight the United States was not only able to keep Red China from getting a U.N. seat but even to prevent debate on whether she was entitled to it.

Now the United States has lost half its battle. In the U.N. session opening Tuesday this country will vote for debate and then concentrate on trying to stall seating of the Chinese Communists.

The United States could line up enough votes to block debate in previous years, but with increasingly narrow margins, when the United Nations was smaller.

American power to do this evaporated as more and more new African and Asian nations joined the world organization, which now has 99 members—48 more than the original 51 when it was created in 1945.

In that year there were only five big powers: the United States, Great Britain, France, Russia and China. All were among the U.N. founding members. China then was run by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government.

Chiang received enormous American help in trying to solve his postwar problems which multiplied as the Communists took over more of China.

He handled them so badly that by the summer of 1949 President Truman's administration washed its hands of the Chiang regime, called it a failure and said the Reds could take over at will.

The administration bluntly blamed Chiang and other Nationalist leaders for the disaster which reached a climax in December 1949, when the Reds drove Chiang and the remnants of his government off the mainland.

They fled to Formosa, 100 miles from shore, set up a government there, and tried to argue they were still the government of all China. This didn't impress Truman.

In January 1950 the president read at a news conference a statement saying this country would not intervene to save Formosa from the Red Chinese, either with arms or military advice. He did say he would continue economic aid.

Yet, within six months Chiang, who had lost all his importance for the United States, suddenly became very important through no doing of his own. With the beginning of the Korean War in June 1950, the United States decided to defend Formosa to protect its flank in the Pacific.

The United States has been tied to Chiang since. It seems safe to say that if there had been no Korean War—in which the Reds directly fought American and

U.N. troops—this country would not have objected to:

(1) Letting the Chinese Communists take over Formosa and (2) letting them into the United Nations as the government of China instead of Chiang's government.

But there was the war. And today, after 12 years of being unable to get closer to the mainland than his fortress on Formosa, Chiang still perpetuates the myth he's the rightful boss of all China.

As a result of the war, and some events afterward, this country has solid reasons for being sore at Red China. But some of the United States' own friends think its resistance to a U.N. seat for Red China is on thin grounds.

For example: The United States points to Red China's aggression in Korea. But by that reasoning, it can be argued, Russia should be thrown out for the way it marched into Hungary to smash the 1956 uprising, and so should Britain and France for their attack on Egypt the same year.

Meanwhile, Red China's government, boss of 600 million people, is not in the United Nations while Chiang, boss of only 10.5 million people on Formosa, is not only in it but has a veto power equal to that of the United States, Britain, France and Russia.

But the problem of admitting Red China now faces so many tangles that they will be a layman's nightmare, trying to understand them.

Since China is already a U.N. member—although represented by

Cholera Outbreak Under Control

HONG KONG (AP) — Hong Kong's five-week-old cholera outbreak appears to be under control but quarantine restrictions on travelers and food supplies from Communist China are still in force.

The cholera outbreak has claimed 128 victims, including 14 deaths, so far.

There has been a sharp decrease in the number of cholera cases in the past week. Government statistics show the number of confirmed cases averaged less than one a day in the past seven days.

Chiang's government — then the question of admitting Red China is not one of new membership but a question of which regime, the Reds or Chiang's, should be allowed to represent China.

This country, if it sees itself losing and Chiang about to be thrown out because the United Nations decides the Red Chinese should represent China, no doubt will then try to have Chiang admitted as a new member representing Formosa.

All the U.N. wrangling up to this time over the two Chinas will look simple compared with the maneuvering, dickering and hair-splitting ahead.

Feels Coup May Be the Result

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Gen. Rafael L. Trujillo Jr., generally considered to be the power in this nation, feels that continuation of sanctions against the Dominican Republic by the Organization of American States would result in a military coup.

Trujillo, who became chief of the armed forces after his father's assassination last May 30, told newsmen Monday he could not "morally impede" a military bid for power if the reasons are sound.

"Logical reasons" for a coup, he said, would involve the nation's restoration to the hemisphere family through renewed diplomatic recognition.

He said this could be achieved by a military uprising designed to advance the date for elections, now scheduled for next May, and installing a popularly elected government that would bid for recognition by all countries of the Western Hemisphere. Therefore he argued that lifting the OAS sanctions now would forestall such a coup.

Candidate Quits

MORRILTON (AP) —Virgil D. Potot, loser in the mayoralty contest at the July Democratic primary, said Tuesday he would withdraw his suit contesting the victory of Dr. Thomas H. Hickey. Hickey had an apparent 339-vote edge over Potot in the primary.

U. S. Defends Free Food Program

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Is Uncle Sam's free food program good or bad for the country?

Does it, as some complain, make able-bodied men and women shiftless so that they spurn work as long as the ladder is well stocked?

Does it cut down on the grocers' sales?

What about reports that allegedly needy have driven to distribution stations in Cadillacs and carted away free rations?

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has no doubts about the merits of the program.

He says: "We are using America's food abundance. As long as there are hungry people in this country, or as long as families have inadequate diets because they cannot buy the food the farmer produces, we intend to find ways to use the unsurpassed capacity to serve human need."

The program was expanded shortly after President Kennedy took office. Additional foods were added to the direct distribution list, and more needy persons were added to the rolls, both at the President's direction. As a result food distribution is running to about three times the level of a year earlier.

The Agriculture Department estimates that slightly more than 14 million children will participate in the school lunch program this year. It also reports that 6.8 million persons in 46 states, the District of Columbia and the territories participated in the direct distribution program during the 1961 fiscal year ended June 30. This compared with 3.4 million a year earlier.

Additionally, 248,000 persons are participating in a food stamp plan under which the government makes stamps available to needy persons for purchase of foods at regular grocery stores. The stamps are redeemed from grocery stores by the department through the banking system.

Under the direct distribution plan, certain foods acquired by the Agriculture Department under its price support and related surplus disposal programs are donated to the states, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, and to the territories for use in the nonprofit school lunch program and for needy persons in charitable institutions and family units.

With a program so widespread and vast, it was inevitable that complaints of abuses would arise. However, a nationwide survey by The Associated Press uncovered surprisingly few instances of out-and-out chiseling.

For example, John Sanford, supervisor of the commodity unit of the Oklahoma Public Welfare Department, says he doesn't think able-bodied men are turning down work to get the food.

"There isn't enough to justify turning down a job," he observed. Marvin E. Larson, Kansas Welfare Director, said his office had received a complaint that a woman appeared in a Cadillac and picked up free groceries.

"That checked out to be a volunteer church worker who was picking up an order for someone incapacitated," Larson added.

Floyd Quinick, Executive Secretary of the Wichita Independent Businessmen's Association, which includes many grocers, commented:

"I've had absolutely no complaints, and our members are in the habit of speaking out at every thing they don't like. They must feel that these are surplus foods, and it's better to give them to those who need them than let them go to waste."

About 9,500 new workers are added to the Arkansas labor force each year.

British Leaving Kuwait Today

KUWAIT (AP) — British forces began a gradual withdrawal from Kuwait today.

A big Beverly transport plane headed out over the Persian Gulf carrying the first men to leave — 80 sunburned soldiers from the 2nd Parachute Battalion — to Bahrain.

The British troops were flown in at Kuwait's request last July after neighboring Iraq laid claim to the little Sheikdom, a former British protectorate rich in oil.

The British agreed to withdraw after members of the Arab League, with Iraq vigorously dissenting, voted to send in forces to protect Kuwait's sovereignty.

Cain's 100 Another TV Toughie

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—If you enjoyed the early "Untouchables,"—and an awful lot of people did—you'll like "Cain's Hundred," the tough, fast-paced and bloody gangster series that moved into NBC's schedule Tuesday night.

Although hero Nick Cain is hunting down and destroying overlords of syndicated crime in on-temporary settings—the bosses wear Ivy League clothes and their limousines have tail fins—comparisons between the two series are inevitable. Paul Monash, who wrote the taut, savage two-part show that launched Eliot Ness two years ago, also created Nick. Although Mark Richman—Nick—and Robert Stack—Eliot—don't look alike, they play the same sort of driven character.

But where Eliot is a dedicated federal agent intent on wiping out evil, Cain is the crime syndicate mouthpiece turned avenger when a plot to kill him results in the death of his fiancée. This may be a corny and trite motivation, but Monash has loaded his first show with plenty of action, blazing guns and good actors.

The PTA, the culture kids and probably the chairman of the Federal Communications Commission (Newton Minow) who is anti-violence and recently called television "a vast wasteland" probably will be unhappy about "Cain's Hundred." But NBC has scheduled it in a late evening spot when children with responsible parents may be presumed to be tucked in for the night.

As for the rest of us, it's a fast moving, exciting cops and robbers story, pure entertainment and escape. And it is almost certain to be very, very popular.

Two of television's most penetrating and thoughtful public affairs programs returned with illuminating shows after a summer layoff.

NBC's "White Paper" was a calmly stated but disturbing on the spot report of conditions in Portuguese Angola, torn by rebellion of its Negro natives against their white masters.

Robert Young made the film report last spring during a long journey on foot with the rebel forces when the government was banning journalists from the colony.

ABC's excellent "Close-Up" series, which has concerned itself before with American problems of Negro integration, approached the subject from a new angle. In "Walk In My Shoes," it described what it is like to be a Negro living in many American communities today, and told it through the Negro's eyes and in words from Negro mouths.

They probably did not say much that most of us are not already aware of, but the program put over its point sharply and tellingly. Negroes spoke, some with and some without emotion, of the "Negro ghettos," of horrible housing conditions, high rents and low

Jamaica Out of Indies Federation

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—The new West Indies Federation, created by Britain to form a chain of free islands in the Caribbean, lost its largest and wealthiest member today after Jamaica voted to withdraw.

The vote in a referendum Tuesday was 251,776 in favor of withdrawal and 216,371 against.

This weakened the position of Prime Minister Norman Manley of Jamaica, who campaigned for federation with the other British islands stretching down to the coast of South America.

The argument against federation, led by Sir Alexander Bustamante's opposition Labor party, wages. Others talked of the many problems of coexistence in a white world.

Recommended tonight: "The Joey Bishop Show," premiere, NBC, 8:30-9 (EST)—comedy series starring the sober-faced comedian as a trouble-prone Hollywood press agent; "Project Hope," CBS, 8:30-9—special report of the privately supported American hospital ship and its health missions abroad.

Dogs Are Saved From Dog's Life

DROXFORD, England (AP)—Seven miniature poodles and a Kerry blue terrier have been saved from a dog's life without barks.

The high-spirited dogs were threatened with de-barking after complaints were made that their yelping disturbed the lazy quiet of this Hampshire village.

The village council suggested an operation involving severing the dogs' vocal chords to silence their barking. Outraged dog lovers all over Britain rallied to Mrs. Harbottle's side.

The council backed down. It announced Tuesday a council official made a check and considered the eight dogs were not a nuisance.

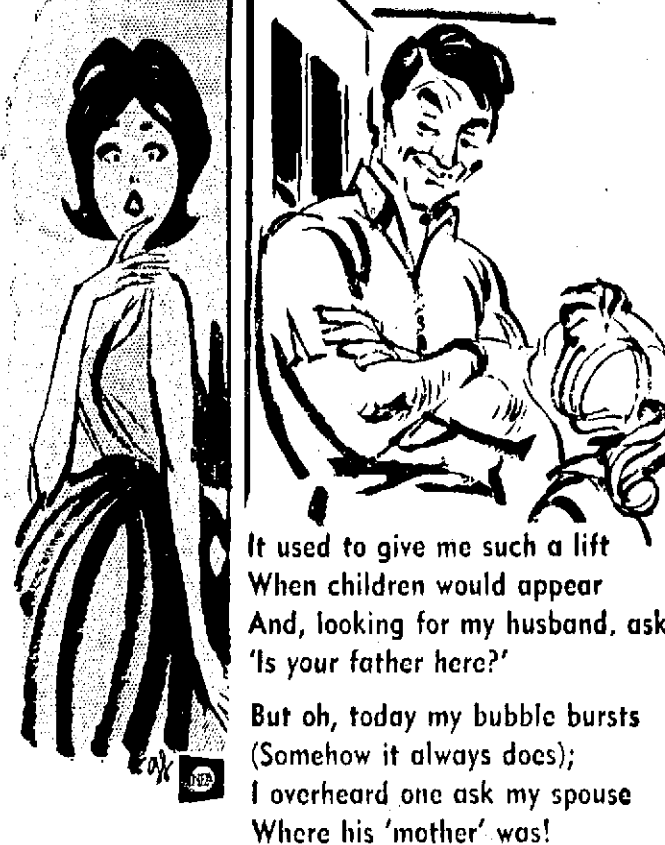

was that it would lower Jamaica's standard of living. He also said Jamaica would be inadequately represented in the new federation government.

Jamaica's 1.7 million people comprise about 56 per cent of the federation's population. Tourism, bauxite mining and rising industrialization make the federation's most prosperous.

In a radio address, Manley expressed regret at the decision "which defeats what I believe to be the only safe road for Jamaica."

POINT OF VIEW

by Janet Henry

It used to give me such a lift
When children would appear
And, looking for my husband, ask,
'Is your father here?'

But oh, today my bubble bursts
(Somehow it always does);
I overheard one ask my spouse
Where his 'mother' was!

Episcopals Favorable to Merger

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

DETROIT (AP)—Episcopal bishops today gave quick and astonishingly unanimous approval to a plan to seek a broad-scale merger with four other Christian denominations.

"I'm quite speechless," said the church's presiding bishop, the Rt. Rev. Arthur Lichtenberger, after the bishops affirmed the action without debate or a dissenting voice.

The move calls for talks looking toward "an eventual united church truly catholic, truly reformed and truly evangelical."

The Polish National Catholic Church as well as possible others, were added to the original propos-ters was resolved today. Foreign Minister Selim Sarper withdrew a resignation he tendered Monday night and announced plans to attend the U.N. General Assembly session in New York.

Sarper earlier was reported by highly qualified informants to have been reluctant to attend the General Assembly meeting due to his personal reaction to the execu-

Back From Talk With Red Premier

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak arrived home today from talks on the Berlin crisis with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Moscow.

"Our conversation was sincere and useful," Spaak said. "We made an effort to understand each other. When there is international tension, I have always been in favor of negotiations. Mr. Khrushchev appeared sincere and relaxed, but firm on certain points."

Spaak, former secretary-general of NATO, visited Moscow at Khrushchev's invitation.

Russia May Have Moon Shot Ready

VIENNA (AP)—Dr. Jiri Mrazek, a Czechoslovak scientist, says the recent Soviet rocket tests in the Pacific appear to be preparations for the launching of an artificial moon satellite.

Mrazek wrote in the Czechoslovak journal Zemske Noviny that the task of the satellite would be to gather data and transmit them to the earth.

Savory Succotash Soup Made Easy With Chicken Noodle Soup Mix

ONCE AGAIN WE HAVE THE GOLDEN HAZE of autumn days, the smell of burning leaves on the air, and in the kitchen the fragrant aroma of delicious home-made soup.

In keeping with the season, try this Succotash Soup for dinner tonight.

In grandma's day, making this soup might well have been a long term project but in this modern miracle mix age, all you need is a handy little package of Lipton's new chicken noodle soup mix to begin with.

The flavorful pieces of chicken, fine noodles and seasonings in the soup mix are set to boiling with a touch of onion and salt; then the canned corn, lima beans, milk and butter are added and heated together until all the flavors are blended.

SUCCOTASH SOUP

- 1 envelope Lipton chicken noodle soup mix
- 1/2 cup cream-style corn
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1/2 cup cooked lima beans
- 1 tablespoon chopped onion
- 1 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon butter

Stir the chicken noodle soup mix into the boiling water. Add onion and salt, cover and boil for 7 minutes. Stir in remaining ingredients and heat to blend flavors. Makes 4 to 6 servings.
